Welcome to the 2014 Washington, DC, Conference of the Association of Anglican Musicians and a warm welcome to our nation’s capital! While the District of Columbia is a high-powered, hot seat of national and international politics, it is also much more. The Washington, DC, metropolitan area is one of the ten largest in the country. Washington, DC, itself is home to a plethora of renowned museums, historic buildings, and beautiful avenues, making the capital city a real sight to behold. While there is not much free time during this busy conference, perhaps you will have opportunities before or after the week’s events to explore this wonderful city. During the week, we will be visiting many landmark sites of the District of Columbia and surrounding area.

Yet this week’s conference is not just about Washington, DC. On Wednesday, we will journey to historic Alexandria, Virginia: notably to the nation’s second oldest and largest Episcopal seminary—Virginia Theological Seminary—as well as to the colonial locus of Old Town. Moreover, our conference planning committee is comprised of members from Baltimore to Richmond and from three Episcopal dioceses: the Dioceses of Washington, Virginia, and Maryland, comprising nearly 126,200 Episcopalians. Thus, this 2014 conference is much larger than Washington, DC.

Our conference theme, “Heart and Voice Uniting,” expresses how we, as church musicians and ministers of music, view our vital and sacred role in the liturgy. We will explore many facets of this theme during the week, including a “Clergy Day” on Wednesday, in which we will join our own hearts and voices with those of our brother and sister clergy—in both worship, song, and discussion. “Heart and Voice Uniting” is taken from the exquisite hymn by John E. Bowers, “We the Lord’s people, heart and voice uniting.” This hymn, which we shall sing during the conference, was set to music by a key Washington musical figure, the late Richard Wayne Dirksen. And so, the music of many local musicians and composers, both living and dead, will be represented during the various worship services this week. Finally, the liturgies of this conference encompass a range of styles and forms, but undergirding them all is the desire to be true—as much as possible—to the manner of worship normally found in the different host churches.

We on the conference committee have greatly enjoyed the fellowship shared during our planning meetings for the past two years, and hope you will enjoy your stay in Washington, in addition to reuniting with friends and colleagues. May God bless you during this week and bless the work, mission, and ministry of the Association of Anglican Musicians!
Welcome

As Mayor of the District of Columbia, it is my pleasure to extend a warm welcome to the participants of the Association of Anglican Musicians Conference.

Greetings to the Association of Anglican Musicians,

It is my pleasure to welcome the members of the Association of Anglican Musicians for your annual conference in Washington DC. It is an honor for you to spend a day visiting Alexandria Virginia on June 18th. It is my understanding that your group has traveled all over the country and Great Britain, so it is indeed an honor for you to visit our city.

While you are here, I personally invite you to explore our historic city on the Potomac River. Take the time to visit our historic neighborhoods, restaurants and shops, and most important, meet the people who make our city unique.

If you have never been to Alexandria, I encourage you to go out, walk around and see all the changes taking place. Alexandria is a fast growing city with a small town atmosphere. You will love it just like we do. You are our guest, Alexandria is ready to roll out the red carpet and provide you with a visit full of memories you won’t soon forget.

Best wishes for a great conference.

Sincerely,

William D. Euille
Mayor

"Home Town of George Washington and Robert E. Lee"

To the 2014 Conference of the Association of Anglican Musicians:

A warm welcome to Alexandria for your conference. We are excited that you are here. You are the holders of a precious tradition. The musical tradition of Anglicanism has been a distinctive gift to Christendom; and your organization has treasured and safeguarded that gift. You are combining this commitment to our past with an equally strong commitment to recognizing that we are living in a changing world. With changing demographics, the spectrum of music that is considered Anglican needs to grow. We celebrate the work you have done and are continuing to do for our future.

Finally, please do enjoy your time in our city. It is a city of charm and beauty. We are proud and delighted that you are here.

May God bless your time with us,

The Very Rev. Ian S. Markham, Ph.D.
Dean and President

Dear Friends in Christ,

Welcome to Washington! Our nation’s capital is a vibrant, beautiful city, offering something for everyone who visits and I hope you’ll have the opportunity to explore while you’re here for the annual Conference of the Association of Anglican Musicians. I look forward to being with you during the bishop’s panel on Wednesday, June 18th.

Music in worship is an issue close to my heart. I believe that our approach to music is inextricably tied to the future of the Episcopal Church. We have both the privilege and an obligation, therefore, to ensure that our musical tradition continues to develop to meet the needs of a 21st century church. How we develop in large part rests in the hearts and souls of this gathering of talented, dedicated people. I give thanks for your ministry among us.

Faithfully,

Mariann Edgar Budde
The Rt. Rev. Marian Edgar Budde, D.Min.
Bishop of Washington
Spring 2014

Dear Friends in Christ,

On behalf of the Diocese of Virginia I am very pleased to welcome you into our part of the Annual Conference of the Association of Anglican Musicians. Greeting you here is an especially personal pleasure for me, as I have for so long had the greatest of respect for AAM, and I can now count myself privileged in being a member. You may certainly rely on my enthusiastic support and participation in AAM’s ministry throughout the Church.

You will be spending time in our diocese at some of our most notable places of ministry. Virginia Theological Seminary is the largest of the 11 accredited seminaries of the Episcopal Church; with a significant international profile it serves the whole of the Anglican Communion. We in Virginia are so very blessed to have VTS in our midst. Episcopal High School is one of the premier independent schools in the United States and is always a faithful partner for the wider Church’s ministries. The school provides superior educational and extracurricular programs, building strength upon strength. St. Mary’s Church in Arlington is one of our most vibrant congregations, distinguished by particularly fine liturgy and an exceptional record of service beyond themselves. Historic Christ Episcopal Church in Alexandria is one of our nation’s most storied sacred spaces. I am honored to be your preacher for the service of Choral Evensong there at one of our largest congregations, one that has certainly been a most faithful steward of its remarkable history and is also known for a life and witness that is fully relevant for today’s Church. I pray that your time in all locations of this Annual Conference will be inspiring, engaging, and edifying.

Please know that I wholeheartedly share your conviction that the Church’s music is a vital offering and experience in our worship of the triune God. Church musicians, therefore, exercise a unique ministry, communicating much that words alone cannot convey. May God bless you in your vocations and may your work and worship during this time draw you ever closer to our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the source of the beauty of holiness.

Faithfully yours,

The Rt. Rev. Shannon S. Johnston
XIII Bishop of Virginia

Dear Friends,

On behalf of all of us in the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, I want to extend a hearty welcome to the Annual Conference of the Association of Anglican Musicians meeting in the National Capital metropolitan area June 15-19, 2014.

Your conference theme, "Heart and Voice Uniting", says much about why music and liturgy is so important in the Anglican tradition. The Book of Common Prayer is filled with the language and rhythms of Benedictine spirituality, which seeks a balance between head, heart and hands in giving glory to God. Unlike some other liturgical traditions, the greatness of Anglican worship is that it expresses a balance of corporate prayer involving sight, hearing, singing, and moving. Not everything in the liturgy should take the shape of spoken words, and music touches us in ways that words alone cannot. As Victor Hugo once said, "Music expresses that which cannot be put into words, and that which cannot remain silent."

In our increasingly secular culture, I believe it is critical now more than ever that the Episcopal Church support our musicians and their ministry in our churches more fully. Priests and musicians share a common mission of evangelism, enabling more and more people to hear the divine notes of love in their lives. Music brings people together, and it is in Anglican worship that we are able to express most beautifully and succinctly the love, mercy and justice of God for everyone.

May God bless your time here this week, and continue to bless your ministry in the Episcopal Church.

Faithfully yours,

[Signature]

Bishop of Maryland

The Herbert Howells Society

President: Sir David Wilcock
Vice-Presidents: Paul Andrews, Harry Bramma, Stephen Cleobury, Simon Heffer, David Hill, Hilary Macnamara, James O’Donnell, Christopher Robinson, Patrick Russel, John Scott, Howard Shelley & Paul Spiteri
Chairman: Martin Neary

The Herbert Howells Society was founded in 1987 at the instigation of Ursula Howells, the composer’s daughter, and is based in Westminster Abbey, where the composer’s ashes are buried. It seeks to promote a wider appreciation of Howells’ music and to support and publicise the performance, publication, and recording of his works. The committee includes the composer John Rutter, who has done much editorial work for the Society, Andrew Lumsden and Andrew Nethsingha.

HHS has given grants for numerous choral and chamber music recordings, including the highly praised Priory Records project covering all the canticle settings, by the Collegiate Singers, conductor Andrew Millinger.

In September Naxos is due to release a recording by the Bach Choir of the new edition of Stabat Mater, Sine Nomine and the world premiere recording of the Collegium Regale Te Deum in the orchestral version. Also this year, under the auspices of the Society, the third movement of the Cello Concerto has been completed and the whole concerto will be recorded, with Alice Neary as soloist.

HHS has members from all over the world, including the USA, and it has helped to present the American premiere of By the waters of Babylon at this week’s conference. It also works closely with, and advises, the Herbert Howells Trust, which was formed in 2008 at St John’s College, Cambridge.

Program

Haec dies

Haec dies quam fecit Dominus:
exultemus et laetemur in ea,
alleluia.

Herbert Howells (1892-1983)

This is the day which the Lord hath made:
let us rejoice and be glad therein,
alleluia.

Laetentur coeli

Laetentur coeli, et exultet terra.
Jubilate montes laudem, quia Dominus noster veniet,
et pauperum suorum miserebitur.

William Byrd (1543-1623)

Let the heavens be glad and let the earth rejoice.
Let the mountains be joyful with praise,
because our Lord will come,
and will show mercy to his poor.

Justorum animae

Justorum animae in manu Dei sunt, et non tanget illos tormentum mortis.
Visi sunt oculus insipientium mori,
illi autem sunt in pace.

William Byrd

The souls of the just are in the hand of God, and the torment of death shall not touch them.
In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die;
but they are in peace.

I was glad

I was glad when they said unto me: We will go into the house of the Lord. For thither the tribes go up, even the tribes of the Lord: to testify unto Israel, to give thanks unto the Name of the Lord. For there is the seat of judgment; even the seat of the house of David. O pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee. Peace be within thy walls; and plenteousness within thy palaces. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost; as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

Henry Purcell (1659-1695)

Words: Psalm 122:1, 4, 5, 6, 7, with Gloria Patri

My soul, there is a country (from Songs of Farewell)

Charles Hubert Hastings Parry (1848-1918)

My soul, there is a country
Far beyond the stars,
Where stands a winged sentry
All skillful in the wars:
There, above noise and danger
Sweet Peace sits crowned with smiles
And One, born in a manger Commands the beauteous files.

He is thy gracious friend
And, O my soul, awake!
Did in pure love descend
To die here for thy sake.

If thou canst get but thither,
There grows the flow’r of Peace,
The Rose that cannot wither,
Thy fortress and thy ease.

Leave then thy foolish ranges,
For none can thee secure
But One who never changes,
Thy God, thy life, thy cure.

Words: Henry Vaughan (1622-1695)

Never weather-beaten sail (from Songs of Farewell)
Charles Hubert Hastings Parry

Never weather-beaten sail more willing bent to shore.
Never tired pilgrim’s limbs affected slumber more,
Than my wearied sprite now longs to fly out of my troubled breast:
O come quickly, sweetest Lord, and take my soul to rest.

Ever blooming are the joys of heaven’s high paradise.
Cold age deafs not there our ears nor vapor dims our eyes:
Glory there the sun outshines whose beams the blessed only see:
O come quickly, glorious Lord, and raise my sprite to thee!

Words: Thomas Campion (1567-1620)

A Prayer of King Henry VI
Gabriel Jackson (b. 1962)

Domine, Jesu Christe, redemisti, et preordinasti
ad hoc quod sum,
tu scis quid de me facere vis;
fac de me secundum
volutatam tuam cum misericordia.

Words: King Henry VI (1421-1471); trans. Paul Pascal

Mitte manum tuam (from Strathclyde Motets)
James MacMillan (b. 1959)

Mitte manum tuam,
et cognosce loca clarorum.
Alleluia, et noli esse incredulus sed fidelis, alleluia.

Words: John 20:27
A New Song
James MacMillan

O sing unto the Lord a new song; *
sing unto the Lord, all the whole earth.
Sing unto the Lord, and praise his Name; *
be telling of his salvation from day to day.
For he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth, * and with righteousness to judge the world, and the people with his truth.

The Turtle Dove
Ralph Vaughan Williams (1872-1958)

Fare you well, my dear, I must be gone,
And leave you for a while;
If I roam away I'll come back again,
Though I roam ten thousand miles, my dear,
Though I roam ten thousand miles.

So fair thou art, my bonny lass,
So deep in love am I;
But I never will prove false to the bonny lass I love,
Till the stars fall from the sky, my dear,
Till the stars fall from the sky.

The sea will never run dry, my dear,
Nor the rocks melt with the sun,
But I never will prove false to the bonny lass I love,
Till all these things be done, my dear,
Till all these things be done.

O yonder doth sit that little turtle dove,
He doth sit on yonder high tree,
A-making a moan for the loss of his love,
As I will do for thee, my dear,
As I will do for thee.

Shall I compare thee to a summer’s day
Nils Lindberg (b. 1933)

Shall I compare thee to a summer’s day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer’s lease hath all too short a date:
Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dim’d;
And every fair from fair sometime declines,
By chance or nature’s changing course untrimm’d;
But thy eternal summer shall not fade
Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow’st;
Nor shall Death brag thou wander’st in his shade,
When in eternal lines to time thou growest:
So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Words: William Shakespeare (1564-1616)

Over hill, over dale (from Three Shakespeare Songs)
Ralph Vaughan Williams

Over hill, over dale,
Thorough bush, thorough briar,
Over park, over pale,
Thorough flood, thorough fire
I do wander everywhere.

Swifter than the moon’s sphere;
And I serve the fairy queen,
To dew her orbs upon the green.
The cowslips tall her pensioners be;
In their gold coats spots you see;
Those be rubies, fairy favours,
In those freckles live their savours:
I must go seek some dew-drops here,
And hang a pearl in every cowslip’s ear.

Songs and Sonnets of Shakespeare
George Shearing (1919-2011)

I. Live with me and be my love
Live with me, and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove
That hills and valleys, dales and fields,
And all the craggy mountains yields.

There will we sit upon the rocks,
And see the shepherds feed their flocks,
By shallow rivers, by whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.
There will I make thee a bed of roses,
With a thousand fragrant posies,
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle
Embroider’d all with leaves of myrtle.
A belt of straw and ivy buds,
With coral clasps and amber studs;
And if these pleasures may thee move,
Then live with me and be my love.

LOVE’S ANSWER

If that the world and love were young,
And truth in every shepherd’s tongue,
These pretty pleasures might me move,
To live with thee and be thy love.

III. It was a lover and his lass

It was a lover and his lass,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,
That o’er the green corn-field did pass,
In the spring time, the only pretty ring time,
When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding;
Sweet lovers love the spring.

Between the acres of the rye,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,
These pretty country folks would lie,
In the spring time, the only pretty ring time,
When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding;
Sweet lovers love the spring.

This carol they began that hour,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,
How that life was but a flower
In the spring time, the only pretty ring time,
When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding;
Sweet lovers love the spring.

And, therefore, take the present time
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,
For love is crown’d with the prime
In the spring time, the only pretty ring time,
When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding;
Sweet lovers love the spring.

Go down, Moses (from Five Negro Spirituals)

Go down, Moses, way down in Egypt land; tell old Pharoah, to let my people go. When Israel was in Egypt land, let my people go. Oppressed so hard they could not stand. Let my people go. Thus spake the Lord, bold Moses said. Let my people go. If not, I’ll smite your firstborn dead. Let my people go. Go down, Moses, way down in Egypt land; tell old Pharaoh, to let my people go.

The Battle of Jericho

Joshua fit the battle of Jericho,
Jericho, Jericho;
Joshua fit the battle of Jericho
And the walls came tumbling down.

You may talk about your kings of Gideon,
You may talk about your men of Saul
But there’s none like good old Joshua
At the battle of Jericho. Joshua fit . .

Now the Lord commanded Joshua;
“I command you and obey you must;
You just march straight to those city walls
And the walls will turn to dust. Joshua fit . .

Straight up to the walls of Jericho
He marched with spear in hand,
“Go blow that ram’s horn,” Joshua cried,
“For the battle is in my hand.” Joshua fit . .

The lamb ram sheep horns began to blow,
And the trumpets began to sound,
And Joshua commanded, “Now children, shout!”
And the walls came tumbling down. Joshua fit . .

the God of your ancestors, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you: This is my name forever, and this my title for all generations.

PSALM 29 Afferte Domino

Chant: Walter Parratt (1841-1924)

1 Ascribe unto the Lord, O ye mighty, *n ascribe unto the Lord worship and strength.

2 Ascribe unto the Lord the honor due unto his Name; *n worship the Lord with holy worship.

3 The voice of the Lord is upon the waters; *n
it is the glorious God that maketh the thunder.

4 It is the Lord that ruleth the sea; the voice of the Lord is mighty in operation; *n
the voice of the Lord is a glorious voice.

5 The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedar-trees; *n yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

6 He maketh them also to skip like a calf; *n
Lebanon also, and Sirion, like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire; the voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness; *n yea, the Lord shaketh the wilderness of Kadesh.

8 The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to bring forth young, and strippeth bare the forests: *n in his temple doth everything speak of his honor.

9 The Lord sitteth above the water-flood, *n and the Lord remaineth a King for ever.

10 The Lord shall give strength unto his people; *n
the Lord shall give his people the blessing of peace.

THE SECOND LESSON: Romans 11:33-36

O the depth of the riches and wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments and how inscrutable his ways! “For who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?” “Or who has given a gift to him, to receive a gift in return?” For from him and through him and to him are all things. To him be the glory forever. Amen.

HYMN: We the Lord’s people, heart and voice uniting

1 We the Lord’s people, heart and voice uniting, praise him who called us out of sin and darkness into his own light,

THE NICENE CREED

I believe in one God The Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth,
And of all things visible and invisible. And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God; Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of Very God; Begotten, not made;
Being of one substance with the Father, By whom all things were made:
Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven,
And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, And was made man:
and was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilot;
He suffered and was buried: And the third day he rose again
according to the Scriptures: And ascended into heaven,
And sitteth on the right hand of the Father: And he shall come again with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead; Whose kingdom shall have no end.
And I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Lord, and giver of Life,

It is very meet, right, and our bounden duty, that we should at all times, and in all places, give thanks unto thee, O Lord, holy Father, almighty, everlasting God. For with thy co-eternal Son and Holy Spirit, thou art one God, one Lord, in Trinity of Persons and in Unity of Substance; and we celebrate the one and equal glory of thee, O Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. All glory be to thee, O Lord our God, for that thou didst create heaven and earth, and didst make us in thine own image; and, of thy tender mercy, didst give thine only Son Jesus Christ to take our nature upon him, and to suffer death upon the cross for our redemption. He made there a full and perfect sacrifice for the whole world; and did institute, and in his holy Gospel command us to continue, a perpetual memory of that his precious death and sacrifice, until his coming again.

For in the night in which he was betrayed, he took bread; and when he had given thanks to thee, he broke it, and gave it to his disciples, saying, “Take, eat, this is my Body, which is given for you. Do this in remembrance of me.” *

Likewise, after supper, he took the cup; and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, saying, “Drink this, all of you; for this is my Blood of the New Covenant, which is shed for you, and for many, for the remission of sins. Do this, as oft as ye shall drink it, in remembrance of me.” *

Wherefore, O Lord and heavenly Father, we thy people do celebrate and make, with these thy holy gifts which we now offer unto thee, the memorial thy Son hath commanded us to make; having in remembrance his blessed passion and precious death, his mighty resurrection and glorious ascension; and looking for his coming again with power and great glory.

And we most humbly beseech thee, O merciful Father, to hear us, and, with thy Word and Holy Spirit, to bless and sanctify these gifts of bread and wine, that they may be unto us the Body and Blood of thy dearly-beloved Son Jesus Christ.

And we earnestly desire thy fatherly goodness to accept this our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving, whereby we offer and present unto thee, O Lord, our selves, our souls and bodies. Grant, we beseech thee, that all who partake of this Holy Communion may worthily receive the most precious Body and Blood of thy Son Jesus Christ, and be filled with thy * grace and heavenly benediction; and also that we and all thy whole Church may be made one body with him, that he may dwell in us, and we in him; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord; By whom, and with whom, and in whom, in the unity of the Holy Ghost all honor and glory be unto thee, O Father Almighty, world without end. PRELUDE (*begins at 4:30 p.m.): By the waters of Babylon (U.S. premiere)

By the waters of Babylon we sat down and wept when we remembered thee, O Sion. As for our harps, we hanged them up upon the trees that are therein. For they that led us away captive required of us then a song and melody in our heaviness. Sing, sing us one of the songs of Sion. How shall we sing the Lord’s song in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth. Remember the children of Eden, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem, how they said “down with it,” “down with it, even to the ground!”

O daughter of Babylon, wasted with misery, yea, happy shall he be who rewardest thee as thou hast served us.

Psalm 77

Voce mea ad Dominum

Chant: John Stainer (1840-1901)

1  I will cry unto God with my voice;
   even unto God will I cry with my voice and he shall hearken unto me.

2  In the time of my trouble I sought the LORD:
   my sore ran and ceased not in the night-season; my soul refused comfort.

3  When I am in heaviness I will think upon God;
   when my heart is vexed, I will complain.

4  Thou holdest mine eyes waking:
   I am so feeble that I cannot speak.

5  I have considered the days of old,
   and the years that are past.

6  I call to remembrance my song, and in the night I commune with mine own heart and search out my spirits.

7  Will the Lord absent himself for ever?
   and will he be no more entreated?

8  Is his mercy clean gone for ever?
   and is his promise come utterly to an end for evermore?

9  Hath God forgotten to be gracious?
   and will he shut up his loving-kindness in displeasure?

10 And I said, It is mine own infirmity;
    but I will remember the years of the right hand of the most Highest.

11 I will remember the works of the LORD, and call to mind thy wonders of old time.

12 I will think also of all thy works, and my talking shall be of thy doings.

13 Thy way, O God, is holy:
    who is so great a God as our God?

14 Thou art the God that doeth wonders, and hast declared thy power among the people.

15 Thou hast mightily delivered thy people, even the sons of Jacob and Joseph.

16 The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee and were afraid;
    the depths also were troubled.

17 The clouds poured out water, the air thundered, and thine arrows went abroad.

18 The voice of thy thunder was heard round about:
    the lightnings shone upon the ground; the earth was moved and shook withal.

19 Thy way is in the sea and thy paths in the great waters, and thy footsteps are not known.
20 Thou leddest thy people like sheep,*
by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son:
and to the Holy Ghost;
as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be,
world without end. Amen.

On the day the tabernacle was set up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, the tent of the covenant; and from evening until morning it was over the tabernacle, having the appearance of fire. It was always so: the cloud covered it by day and the appearance of fire by night. Whenever the cloud lifted from over the tent, then the Israelites would set out; and in the place where the cloud settled down, there the Israelites would camp. At the command of the LORD the Israelites would set out, and at the command of the LORD they would camp. As long as the cloud rested over the tabernacle, they would remain in camp. Even when the cloud continued over the tabernacle many days, the Israelites would keep the charge of the LORD, and would not set out. Sometimes the cloud would remain a few days over the tabernacle, and according to the command of the LORD they would remain in camp; then according to the command of the LORD they would set out. Sometimes the cloud would remain from evening until morning; and when the cloud lifted in the morning, they would set out, or if it continued for a day and a night, when the cloud lifted they would set out. Whether it was two days, or a month, or a longer time, that the cloud continued over the tabernacle, resting upon it, the Israelites would remain in camp and would not set out; but when it lifted they would set out. At the command of the LORD they would camp, and at the command of the LORD they would set out. They kept the charge of the Lord, at the command of the LORD by Moses. And Moses said to Hobab son of Reuel the Midianite, Moses’ father-in-law, “We are setting out for the place of which the LORD said, ’I will give it to you’, come with us, and we will treat you well; for the LORD has promised good to Israel.” But he said to him, “I will not go, but I will go back to my own land and to my kindred.” He said, “Do not leave us, for you know where we should camp in the wilderness, and you will serve as eyes for us. Moreover, if you go with us, whatever good the LORD does for us, the same we will do for you.” So they set out from the mount of the Lord three days’ journey with the ark of the covenant of the LORD going before them three days’ journey, to seek out a resting place for them, the cloud of the LORD being over them by day when they set out from the camp. Whenever the ark set out, Moses would say, “Arise, O LORD, let your enemies be scattered, and your foes flee before you.” And whenever it came to rest, he would say, “Return, O LORD of the ten thousand thousands of Israel.”

My soul doth magnify the Lord,
and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior.
For he hath regarded
the lowliness of his handmaiden.
For behold, from henceforth
all generations shall call me blessed.
For he that is mighty hath magnified me,
and holy is his Name.
And his mercy is on them that fear him
throughout all generations.
He hath showed strength with his arm;
he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
He hath put down the mighty from their seat,
and hath exalted the humble and meek.
He hath filled the hungry with good things,
and the rich he hath sent empty away.
He remembering his mercy hath holpen his servant Israel,

Abraham and his seed for ever.

THE SECOND LESSON: Romans 1:1-15

Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, set apart for the gospel of God, which he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy scriptures, the gospel concerning his Son, who was descended from David according to the flesh and was declared to be Son of God with power according to the spirit of holiness by resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord, through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith among all the Gentiles for the sake of his name, including yourselves who are called to belong to Jesus Christ, to all God’s beloved in Rome, who are called to be saints: Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for all of you, because your faith is proclaimed throughout the world. For God, whom I serve with my spirit by announcing the gospel of his Son, is my witness that without ceasing I remember you always in my prayers, asking that by God’s will I may somehow at last succeed in coming to you. For I am longing to see you so that I may share with you some spiritual gift to strengthen you—or rather so that we may be mutually encouraged by each other’s faith, both yours and mine. I want you to know, brothers and sisters, that I have often intended to come to you (but thus far have been prevented), in order that I may reap some harvest among you as I have among the rest of the Gentiles. I am a debtor both to Greeks and to barbarians, both to the wise and to the foolish—hence my eagerness to proclaim the gospel to you also who are in Rome.

thy kingdom come,
thy will be done,
on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our trespasses,

For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory,
for ever and ever. Amen.

The Officiant sings the following collects.

THE COLLECT OF THE DAY

Keep, O Lord, we beseech thee, thy household the Church in thy steadfast faith and love, that through thy grace we may proclaim thy truth with boldness, and minister thy justice with compassion; for the sake of our Savior Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever. Amen.

A COLLECT FOR PEACE

O God, who art the author of peace and lover of concord, in knowledge of whom standeth our eternal life, whose service is perfect freedom: Defend us, thy humble servants, in all assaults of our enemies; that we, surely trusting in thy defense, may not fear the power of any adversaries; through the might of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A COLLECT FOR MISSION

Keep watch, dear Lord, with those who work, or watch, or weep this night, and give thine angels charge over those who sleep. Tend the sick, Lord Christ; give rest to the weary, bless the dying, soothe the suffering, pity the afflicted, shield the joyous; and all for thy love's sake. Amen.

THE ANTHEM: O Lord, support us

O Lord, support us all the day long, until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and our work is done. Then in thy mercy grant us a safe lodging, and a holy rest, and peace at the last. Amen.

THE GENERAL THANKSGIVING

Officiant
Almighty God, Father of all mercies, we thine unworthy servants
do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to us and to all men.
We bless thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life;
but above all for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ;
for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory.

And, we beseech thee,
give us that due sense of all thy mercies,
that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful;
and that we show forth thy praise,
not only with our lips, but in our lives,
by giving up our selves to thy service,
and by walking before thee
in holiness and righteousness all our days;
through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom, with thee and the Holy Spirit,
be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

The Officiant prays

A PRAYER OF ST. JOHN CHRYSOSTOM

Almighty God, who hast given us grace at this time with one accord to make our common supplication unto thee; and hast promised through thy well-beloved Son that when two or three are gathered together in his Name thou wilt be in the midst of them: Fulfill now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of thy servants as may be best for us; granting us in this world knowledge of thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting. Amen.

The Officiant then concludes with

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.
HYMN: The day thou gavest, Lord, is ended

Monday

Hymn: The day thou gavest, Lord, is ended

1 The day thou gavest, Lord, is ended, the darkness falls at thy behest; to thee our morning hymns ascend;
2 We thank thee that thy Church, unceasing, while earth rolls onward into light, through all the world her watch is kept;
3 As o'er each continent and island the dawn leads on another day, the voice of prayer is never silent, nor dies the strain of praise away;
4 So be it, Lord; thy throne shall never, like earth's proud empires, pass away; thy kingdom stands, and grows for ever.

CHORAL PSALMS

THE MAJESTY AND GLORY OF YOUR NAME (PSALM 8)

When I look into the night sky and see the work of your fingers, the moon and stars suspended in space. Oh, what is man that you are mindful of him? You have given man, a crown of glory and honor and have made him, a little lower than the angels. You have put him in charge of all creation, the beasts of the field, the birds of the air, the fish of the sea, but what is man, oh, what is man, that you are mindful of him? O Lord, our God, the majesty and glory of your name, transcends the earth and fills the heavens, O Lord, our God. Little children praise you perfectly and so would we, and so would we. Alleluia, alleluia. The majesty and glory of your name.

Praise him for his mighty acts, praise him for his mighty acts, praise ye the Lord. With the sound of the trumpets, with the sound of the trumpets, praise ye the Lord. Hallelujah. . . Praise him, I want to praise the Lord. Hallelujah. . . Praise him, I want to praise the Lord.

THE FIRST LESSON: 1 Samuel 1:21–2:11

The man Elkanah and all his household went up to offer to the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and to pay his vow. But Hannah did not go up, for she said to her husband, “As soon as the child is weaned, I will bring him, that he may appear in the presence of the LORD, and remain there forever; I will offer him as a nazirite for all time.” Her husband Elkanah said to her, “Do what seems best to you, wait until you have weaned him; only—may the LORD establish his word.” So the woman remained and nursed her son, until she weaned him. When she had weaned him, she took him up with her, along with a three-year-old bull, an ephah of flour, and a skin of wine. She brought him to the house of the LORD at Shiloh; and the child was young. Then they slaughtered the bull, and they brought the child to Eli. And she said, “Oh, my lord! As you live, my lord, I am the woman who was standing here in your presence, praying to the LORD. For this child I prayed; and the LORD has granted me the petition that I made to him. Therefore I have lent him to the LORD; as long as he lives, he is given to the LORD.” She left him there for the LORD. Hannah prayed and said, “My heart exults in the LORD; my strength is exalted in my God. My mouth derides my enemies, because I rejoice in my victory. There is no Holy One like the LORD, no one besides you; there is no Rock like our God. Talk no more so very proudly, let not arrogance come from your mouth; for the LORD is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed. The bows of the mighty are broken, but the feeble gird on strength. Those who were full have hired themselves out for bread, but those who were hungry are fat with spoil. The barren has borne seven, but she who has many children is forlorn. The LORD kills and brings to life; he brings down to Sheol and raises up. The LORD makes poor and makes rich; he brings low, he also exalts. He raises up the poor from the dust; he lifts the needy from the ash heap, to make them sit with princes and inherit a seat of honor. For the pillars of the earth are the Lord’s, and on them he has set the world. He will guard the feet of his faithful ones, but the wicked shall be cut off in darkness; for not by might does one prevail. The LORD! His adversaries shall be shattered; the Most High will thunder in heaven. The LORD will judge the ends of the earth; he will give strength to his king, and exalt the power of his anointed.” Then Elkanah went home to Ramah, while the boy remained to minister to the LORD, in the presence of the priest Eli.

THE SECOND LESSON: Romans 1:16-25

For I am not ashamed of the gospel; it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who has faith, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. For in it the righteousness of God is revealed through faith for faith; as it is written, “The one who is righteous will live by faith.” For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and wickedness of those who by their wickedness suppress the truth. For what can be known about God is plain to them, because God has shown it to them. Ever since the creation of the world his eternal power and divine nature, invisible though they are, have been understood and seen through the things he has made. So they are without excuse; for though they knew God, they did not honor him as God or give thanks to him, but they became futile in their thinking, and their senseless minds were darkened. Claiming to be wise, they became fools; and they exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images resembling a mortal human being or birds or four-footed animals or reptiles. Therefore God gave them up in the lusts of their hearts to impurity, to the degrading of their bodies among themselves, because they exchanged the truth about God for a lie and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever! Amen.

THE ANTHEM: Amazing grace

Amazing grace, how sweet the sound, that saved a wretch like me. I once was lost but now am found, was blind, but now I see. ‘Twas grace that taught my heart to fear, and grace, my fears relieved. How precious did that grace appear the hour I first believed. Through many dangers, toils and snares I have already come; ‘tis grace that brought me safe thus far and grace will lead me home. When we’ve been there ten thousand years, bright shining as the sun, we’ve no less days to sing God’s praise than when we’ve first begun.

PSALM 78:40-72 Quoties exacerbaverunt

40 How often the people disobeyed you in the wilderness * and offended you in the desert!
41 Again and again they tempted you * and provoked you, the Holy One of Israel 42 They did not remember your power * in the day when you ransomed them from the enemy; 43 How you wrought your signs in Egypt * and your omens in the field of Zoan.
44 You turned their rivers into blood, * so that they could not drink of their streams.
45 You sent swarms of flies among them, which ate them up, *
and frogs, which destroyed them.
46 You gave their crops to the caterpillar *
the fruit of their toil to the locust.
47 You killed their vines with hail * and their sycamores with frost.
48 You delivered their cattle to hailstones *
and their livestock to hot thunderbolts.
49 You poured out upon them your blazing anger: *
fury, indignation, and distress,
a troop of destroying angels.
50 You gave full rein to your anger;
you did not spare their souls from death; *
but delivered their lives to the plague.
51 You struck down all the firstborn of Egypt, *
the first-fruits of their strength in the dwellings of Ham.
52 You led out your people like sheep * and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.
53 You led them safely, and they were not afraid; *
but the sea overwhelmed their enemies.
54 You brought them to your holy land, *
the mountain your right hand had won.
55 You drove out Canaanites before them and apportioned an inheritance to them by lot; *
you made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

56 But they tested you, O Most High, and defied you * and did not keep your commandments.

57 They turned away and were disloyal like their forebears; *
they were undependable like a warped bow.

58 They grieved you with their hill-altars * and provoked your displeasure with their idols.

59 When you heard this you were angry * and utterly rejected Israel.

60 You forsook the shrine at Shiloh, *
the tabernacle where you had lived among your people.

61 You delivered the ark into captivity, *
your glory into the adversary’s hand.

62 You gave your people to the sword * and were angered against your inheritance.

63 The fire consumed their young men; *
there were no wedding songs for their maidens.

64 Their priests fell by the sword, *
and their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then you awoke, O God, as though from sleep, *
like a warrior refreshed with wine.

66 You struck your enemies on the backside * and put them to perpetual shame.

67 You rejected the tent of Joseph * and did not choose the tribe of Ephraim;

68 You chose instead the tribe of Judah * and Mount Zion, which you loved.

69 You built your sanctuary like the heights of heaven, *
like the earth which you founded for ever.

70 You chose David your servant * and took him away from the sheepfolds.

71 You brought him from following the ewes, *
to be a shepherd over Jacob your people and over Israel your inheritance.

72 So he shepherded them with a faithful and true heart, * guided him with skillfulness of his hands.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost;
as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

The First Lesson: Numbers 11:1-23

Now when the people complained in the hearing of the LORD about their misfortunes, the LORD heard it and his anger was kindled. Then the fire of the LORD burned against them, and consumed some outlying parts of the camp. But the people cried out to Moses; and Moses prayed to the LORD, and the fire abated. So that place was called Taberah, because the fire of the LORD burned against them. The rabble among them had a strong craving; and the Israelites also wept again, and said, “If only we had meat to eat! We remember the fish we used to eat in Egypt for nothing, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic; but now our strength is dried up, and there is nothing at all but this manna to look at.” Now the manna was like coriander seed, and its color was like the color of gum resin. The people went around and gathered it, ground it in mills or beat it in mortars, then boiled it in pots and made cakes of it; and the taste of it was like the taste of cakes baked with oil. When the dew fell on the camp in the night, the manna would fall with it. Moses heard the people weeping throughout their families, all at the entrances of their tents. Then the LORD became very angry, and Moses was displeased. So Moses said to the LORD, “Why have you treated your servant so badly? Why have I not found favor in your sight, that you lay the burden of all this people on me? Did I conceive all this people? Did I give birth to them, that you should say to me, ‘Carry them in your bosom, as a nurse carries a sucking child,’ to the land that you promised on oath to their ancestors? Where am I to get meat to give to all this people? For they come weeping to me and say, ‘Give us meat to eat!’ I am not able to carry all this people alone, for they are too heavy for me. If this is the way you are going to treat me, put me to death at once—if I have found favor in your sight—and do not let me see my misery.” So the LORD said to Moses, “Gather for me seventy of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the elders of the people and officers over them; bring them to the tent of meeting, and have them take their place there with you. I will come down and talk with you there; and I will take some of the spirit that is on you and put it on them; and they shall bear the burden of the people along with you so that you will not bear it all by yourself. And say to the people: Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow, and you shall eat meat; for you have wailed in the hearing of the LORD, saying, ‘If only we had meat to eat! Surely it was better for us in Egypt.’ Therefore the LORD will give you meat, and you shall eat. You shall eat not only one day, or two days, or five days, or ten days, or twenty days, but for a whole month—until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes loathsome to you—because you have rejected the LORD who is among you, and have wailed before him, saying, ‘Why did we ever leave Egypt?’” But Moses said, “The people I am with number six hundred thousand on foot; and you say, ‘I will give them meat, that they may eat for a whole month!’ Are there enough flocks and herds to slaughter for them? Are there enough fish in the sea to catch for them?” The LORD said to Moses, “Is the Lord’s power limited? Now you shall see whether my word will come true for you or not.”

The Song of Mary Magnificat

My soul doth magnify the Lord,
and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior.
For he hath regarded
the lowliness of his handmaiden.
For behold, from henceforth
all generations shall call me blessed.
For he that is mighty hath magnified me,
and holy is his Name.
And his mercy is on them that fear him
throughout all generations.
He hath showed strength with his arm;
he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
He hath put down the mighty from their seat,
and hath exalted the humble and meek.
He hath filled the hungry with good things,
and the rich he hath sent empty away.
He remembering his mercy hath holpen his servant Israel,
as he promised to our forefathers,
Abraham and his seed for ever.
Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost;
as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

THE SECOND LESSON: Matthew 17:22-27

As they were gathering in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is going to be betrayed into human hands, and they will kill him, and on the third day he will be raised.” And they were greatly distressed. When they reached Capernaum, the collectors of the temple tax came to Peter and said, “Does your teacher not pay the temple tax?” He said, “Yes, he does.” And when he came home, Jesus spoke of it first, asking, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do kings of the earth take toll or tribute? From their children or from others?”
When Peter said, “From others,” Jesus said to him, “Then the children are free. However, so that we do not give offense to them, go to the sea and cast a hook; take the first fish that comes up; and when you open its mouth, you will find a coin; take that and give it to them for you and me.”

THE ANTHEM: The Twelve

I

Without arms or charm of culture,
Persons of no importance
From an unimportant Province,
They did as the Spirit bid,
Went forth into a joyless world
Of swords and rhetoric
To bring it joy.

When they heard the Word, some demurred, some mocked, some were shocked: but many were stirred and the Word spread. Lives long dead were quickened to life; the sick were healed by the Truth revealed; released into peace from the gin of old sin, men forgot themselves in the glory of the story told by the Twelve. Then the Dark Lord, adored by this world, perceived the threat of the Light to his might. From his throne he spoke to his own. The loud crowd, the sedate engines of State, were moved by his will to kill. It was done. One by one, they were caught, tortured, and slain.
II

O Lord, my God,
Though I forsake thee
Forsake me not,
But guide me as I walk
Through the valley of mistrust,
And let the cry of my disbelieving absence
Come unto thee,
Thou who declared unto Moses:
“I shall be there.”

III

Children play about the ancestral graves, for the dead no longer walk.
Excellent still in their splendor are the antique statues: but can do neither good nor evil.
Beautiful still are the starry heavens: but our fate is not written there.
Holy still is speech, but there is no sacred tongue: the Truth may be told in all.
Twelve as the winds and the months are those who taught us these things: envisaging each in an oval glory, let us praise them all with a merry noise.

THE PRAYERS

O God, by whom the meek are guided in judgment, and light riseth up in darkness for the godly: Grant us, in all our doubts and uncertainties, the grace to ask what thou wouldest have us to do, that the Spirit of wisdom may save us from all false choices, and that in thy light we may see light, and in thy straight path may not stumble; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Lord, make us instruments of thy peace. Where there is hatred, let us sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is discord, union; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; where there is sadness, joy. Grant that we may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love. For it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned; and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life. Amen.

Grant, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that the words which we have heard this day with our outward ears, may, through thy grace, be so grafted inwardly in our hearts, that they may bring forth in us the fruit of good living, to the honor and praise of thy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The First Lesson: Numbers 11:24-35

Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD; and he gathered seventy elders of the people, and placed them all around the tent. Then the LORD came down in the cloud and spoke to him, and took some of the spirit that was on him and put it on the seventy elders; and when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied. But they did not do so again. Two men remained in the camp, one named Eldad, and the other named Medad, and the spirit rested on them; they were among those registered, but they had not gone out to the tent, and so they prophesied in the camp. And a young man ran and told Moses, “Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.” And Joshua son of Nun, the assistant of Moses, one of his chosen men, said, “My lord Moses, stop them!” But Moses said to him, “Are you jealous for my sake! Would that all the Lord’s people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his spirit on them!” And Moses and the elders of Israel returned to the camp. Then a wind went out from the LORD, and it brought quails from the sea and let them fall beside the camp, about a day’s journey on this side and a day’s journey on the other side, all around the camp, about two cubits deep on the ground. So the people worked all that day and night and all the next day, gathering the quails; the least anyone gathered was ten homers; and they spread them out for themselves all around the camp. But while the meat was still between their teeth, before it was consumed, the anger of the LORD was kindled against the people, and the LORD struck the people with a very great plague. So that place was called Kibroth-hattaavah, because there they buried the people who had the craving. From Kibroth-hattaavah the people journeyed to Hazeroth.

THE SECOND LESSON: Matthew 18:1-9

When they were in Capernaum, the disciples came to Jesus and asked, “Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?” He called a child, whom he put among them, and said, “Truly I tell you, unless you change and be-come like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Whoever becomes humble like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. Whoever welcomes one such child in my name welcomes me. “If any of you put a stumbling block before one of these little ones who believe in me, it would be better for you if a great millstone were fastened around your neck and you were drowned in the depth of the sea. Woe to the world because of stumbling blocks! Occasions for stumbling are bound to come, but woe to the one by whom the stumbling block comes! “If your hand or your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off and throw it away; it is better for you to enter life maimed or lame than to have two hands or two feet and to be thrown into the eternal fire. And if your eye causes you to stumble, tear it out and throw it away; it is better for you to enter life with one eye than to have two eyes and to be thrown into the hell of fire.

Thus says the high and lofty One who inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy, “I dwell in the high and holy place and also with the one who has a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble and to revive the heart of the contrite.”

THE BIDDING PRAYER

Dear People of God: As we gather to celebrate and make this offering of praise and thanksgiving to God for the great gift of music and our vocation to offer it in God’s name, let us prepare ourselves in heart and mind to enter into God’s holy presence.

Purify our thoughts, O Lord, and draw us into your presence through the gift of your Holy Spirit. Let us find you in this time of reflection and praise, and hear you speak as you have declared your purpose throughout time and through many voices.

Grant us grace to desire you with our whole heart; that so desiring, we may seek and find you; and so finding, may love you; and so loving, may hate those sins from which you have delivered us.

We remember before you, O Lord, your holy Church: inspire it for your service, draw it ever more closely together and to you, that it may be a witness to your loving purposes and mission.

We remember before you the needs of your whole world: for justice and peace on the earth, for those who are sick, and those who mourn, the lonely, and unloved, those of every age, as well as those who do not yet know you.

Make us instruments of divine charity, of mercy, of hope, and of new possibility. Give us eyes to see, ears to hear, the will to act, and a discerning and generous heart that we may serve you in whatever way we are able.

And as we seek to worship you in spirit and in truth we pray in the words which you have taught us saying:

All

Our Father, who art in heaven,
    hallowed be thy Name,
    thy kingdom come,
    thy will be done,
    on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our trespasses,
    as we forgive those
    who trespass against us.
And lead us not into temptation,

For thine is the kingdom,

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Exodus 14:10, 13, 21-23, 26-27, 15:1-3

As Pharaoh drew near, the Israelites looked back, and there were the Egyptians advancing on them. In great fear the Israelites cried out to the Lord. But Moses said to the people, “Do not be afraid, stand firm, and see the deliverance that the Lord will accomplish for you today; for the Egyptians whom you see today you shall never see again.” Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea. The Lord drove the sea back by a strong east wind all night, and turned the sea into dry land; and the waters were divided. The Israelites went into the sea on dry ground, the waters forming a wall for them on their right and on their left. The Egyptians pursued, and went into the sea after them, all of Pharaoh’s horses, chariots, and chariot drivers. Then the Lord said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand over the sea, so that the water may come back upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots and chariot drivers.” So Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and at dawn the sea returned to its normal depth. As the Egyptians fled before it, the Lord tossed the Egyptians into the sea. Then Moses and the Israelites sang this song to the Lord: “I will sing to the Lord, for he has triumphed gloriously; horse and rider he has thrown into the sea. The Lord is my strength and my might, and he has become my salvation; this is my God, and I will praise him, my father’s God, and I will exalt him. The Lord is a warrior; the Lord is his name.”

COLLECT

O God, whose wonderful deeds of old shine forth even to our own day, you once delivered by the power of your mighty arm your chosen people from slavery under Pharaoh, to be a sign for us of the salvation of all nations by the water of Baptism: Grant that all the peoples of the earth may be numbered among the offspring of Abraham, and rejoice in the inheritance of Israel; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ANTHEM: Shall we gather by the river

Shall we gather by the river, where bright angels’ feet have trod, with its crystal tide forever flowing by the throne of God? Yes, we’ll gather by the river, the beautiful, the beautiful river, gather with the saints by the river that flows by the throne of God. Soon we’ll reach the shining river, soon our pilgrimage will cease, soon our happy hearts will quiver with the melody of peace. Yes, we’ll gather...

Praise him who called us out of sin and darkness

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Isaiah 6:1-9

In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lofty; and the hem of his robe filled the temple. Seraphs were in attendance above him; each had six wings: with two they covered their faces, and with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. And one called to another and said: “Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory.” The pivots on the thresholds shook at the voices of those who called, and the house filled with smoke. And I said: “Woe is me! I am lost, for I am a man of unclean lips, and I live among a people of unclean lips; yet my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts!” Then one of the seraphs flew to me, holding a live coal that had been taken from the altar with a pair of tongs. The seraph touched my mouth with it and said: “Now that this has touched your lips, your guilt has departed and your sin is blotted out.” Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, “Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?” And I said, “Here am I; send me!”

COLLECT

Give us grace, O Lord, to answer readily the call of our Savior Jesus Christ and proclaim to all people the Good News of his salvation, that we and all the whole world may perceive the glory of his marvelous works; who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

ANTHEM: Alleluia

Music:  Randall Thompson (1899-1984)

Into his own light, that he might anoint us a royal priesthood

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Philippians 2:1, 5-11

If then there is any encouragement in Christ, any consolation from love, any sharing in the Spirit, any compassion and sympathy, make my joy complete: Let the same mind be in you that was in Christ Jesus, who, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God as something to be exploited, but emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, being born in human likeness. And being found in human form, he humbled himself and became obedient to the point of death—even death on a cross. Therefore God also highly exalted him and gave him the name that is above every name, so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

COLLECT

O God, who wonderfully created, and yet more wonderfully restored, the dignity of human nature: Grant that we may share the divine life of him who humbled himself to share our humanity, your Son Jesus Christ; who lives and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

MOTET: Ubi caritas

Ubi caritas et amor,
Deus ibi est.
Congregavit nos in unum Christi amor.
Exsultemus, et in ipso jucundemur.
Timeamus, et amemus Deum vivum.
Et ex corde diligamus nos sincero.

Where true charity and love dwell,
God himself is there.
Since the love of Christ has joined us in one body,
let us all rejoice and be glad now and always.
And as we hear and love our Lord, the living God,
so let us in sincerity love all people.

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Revelation 21:1-6

Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. And I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, “See, the home of God is among mortals. He will dwell with them; they will be his peoples, and God himself will be with them; he will wipe every tear from their eyes. Death will be no more; mourning and crying and pain will be no more, for the first things have passed away.” And the one who was seated on the throne said, “See, I am making all things new.” Also he said, “Write this, for these words are trustworthy and true.” Then he said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To the thirsty I will give water as a gift from the spring of the water of life.”

Almighty God, kindle, we pray, in every heart the true love of peace, and guide with your wisdom those who take counsel for the nations of the earth; that in tranquility your dominion may increase, until the earth is filled with the knowledge of your love; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

School for the faithful, refuge for the sinner

SCRIPTURE LESSON: Psalm 11

In the LORD have I taken refuge; *
how then can you say to me,
“Fly away like a bird to the hilltop;”

For see how the wicked bend the bow and fit their arrows to the string, *
to shoot from ambush at the true of heart.

When the foundations are being destroyed, *
what can the righteous do?”

The LORD is in his holy temple; *
the LORD’S throne is in heaven.

His eyes behold the inhabited world; *
his piercing eye weighs our worth.
The LORD weighs the righteous as well as the wicked, *
but those who delight in violence he abhors.

Upon the wicked he shall rain coals of fire and burning sulphur; *
a scorching wind shall be their lot.

For the LORD is righteous;
he delights in righteous deeds; *
and the just shall see his face.

Amen.

HYMN-ANTHEM (music provided in conference packet): O for a closer walk

O for a closer walk with God, a calm and heavenly frame, a light to shine upon the road that leads me to the Lamb! Return, O holy Dove, return, sweet messenger of rest; I hate the sins that made thee mourn, and drove thee from my breast. So shall my walk be close with God, calm and serene my frame; so purer light shall mark the road that leads me to the Lamb.

Rest for the pilgrim, haven for the weary; all find a welcome

Before man came to blow it right
The wind once blew itself untaught,
And did its loudest day and night
In any rough place where it caught.

Man came to tell it what was wrong:
It hadn’t found the place to blow;
It blew too hard—the aim was song.
And listen—how it ought to go!

He took a little in his mouth,
And held it long enough for north
To be converted into south,
And then by measure blew it forth.

By measure. It was word and note,
The wind the wind had meant to be—
A little through the lips and throat.
The aim was song—the wind could see.
COLLECT

Holy God, who calls us beyond the limits of our poor understandings, and holds wide heaven’s door to receptive hearts, take us in this holy place, we pray, by the grace of music, into the wonder that silences all agitation, into the praise that knits up all fear. And lead us on by the way of music to glimpse a oneness which cannot yet be fully seen, and find a rest which cannot yet be fully known. So shall we perceive that unity which foreshadows the end of all divisions and that silence which heralds the beginning of all joys; and know ourselves to be, at last, your redeemed people; graced and raised by song. Amen.

THE CLOSING PRAYERS

Creator God, source of all that sustains us, we give you thanks for the privilege of shaping sound and silence to your glory. Shed that same glorious light upon your Church and upon its work and worship. Bless with renewed hope, energy and all who plan and lead liturgy and music—ministers and musicians, composers and singers. In this servant ministry, help us to listen to each other as we enable congregations to express their longing for you, and encourage us to let go of everything that harms and hinders us in this task. By your Holy Spirit, empower all to work in partnership and harmony as we proclaim your praise and sing of your love, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE CLOSING HYMN (music provided in conference packet): A Hymn to St. Cecilia

Sing for the morning’s joy, Cecilia, sing, in words of youth and praises of the spring, walk the bright colonnades by fountains’ spray, and sing as sunlight fills the waking day; till angels, voyaging in upper air, pause on a wing and gather the clear sound into celestial joy, wound and unwound, a silver chain, or golden as your hair. Sing for your loves of heaven and of earth, in words of music, and each word a truth; marriage of heart and longings that aspire, a bond of roses, and a ring of fire. Your summertime grows short and fades away, terror must gather to a martyr’s death; but never tremble, the last indrawn breath remembers music as an echo may. Through the cold aftermath of centuries, Cecilia’s music dances in the skies; lend us a fragment of the immortal air, that with your choiring angels we may share, a word to light us through time-fettered night, water of life, or rose of paradise, so from the earth another song shall rise to meet your own in heaven’s long delight.

“Throughout our journey toward completion of Opus 137 we were amazed by the Fisk team’s ability to work with our building committee, architects and contractors.

From the choir loft above the nave to the HVAC system in the basement, Fisk designers helped us avoid needless compromise in the renovation of our historic church and the rejuvenation of our music program.

The result is a remarkable instrument that is seamlessly woven into the fabric of the building and our church community.”

THE FIRST LESSON: 1 Samuel 2:12-26

Now the sons of Eli were scoundrels; they had no regard for the LORD or for the duties of the priests to the people. When anyone offered sacrifice, the priest’s servant would come, while the meat was boiling, with a three-pronged fork in his hand, and he would thrust it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the fork brought up the priest would take for himself. This is what they did at Shiloh to all the Israelites who came there. Moreover, before the fat was burned, the priest’s servant would come and say to the one who was sacrificing, “Give meat for the priest to roast; for he will not accept boiled meat from you, but only raw.” And if the man said to him, “Let them burn the fat first, and then take whatever you wish,” he would say, “No, you must give it now; if not, I will take it by force.” Thus the sin of the young men was very great in the sight of the LORD; for they treated the offerings of the LORD with contempt. Samuel was ministering before the LORD, a boy wearing a linen ephod. His mother used to make for him a little robe and take it to him each year, when she went up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. Then Eli would bless Elkanah and his wife, and say, “May the LORD repay you with children by this woman for the gift that she made to the LORD”; and then they would return to their home. And the LORD took note of Hannah; she conceived and bore three sons and two daughters. And the boy Samuel grew up in the presence of the LORD. Now Eli was very old. He heard all that his sons were doing to all Israel, and how they lay with the women who served at the entrance to the tent of meeting. He said to them, “Why do you do such things? For I hear of your evil dealings from all these people. No, my sons; it is not a good report that I hear the people of the LORD spreading abroad. If one person sins against another, someone can intercede for the sinner with the LORD; but if someone sins against the LORD, who can make intercession?” But they would not listen to the voice of their father; for it was the will of the LORD to kill them. Now the boy Samuel continued to grow both in stature and in favor with the LORD and with the people.

THE SONG OF MARY \(\text{Magnificat}\)

My soul doth magnify the Lord,
and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior.
For he hath regarded
the lowliness of his handmaiden.
For behold, from henceforth
all generations shall call me blessed.
For he that is mighty hath magnified me,
and holy is his Name.
And his mercy is on them that fear him
throughout all generations.
He hath showed strength with his arm;
he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
He hath put down the mighty from their seat,
and hath exalted the humble and meek.
He hath filled the hungry with good things,
and the rich he hath sent empty away.
He remembering his mercy hath holpen his servant Israel,
as he promised to our forefathers,
Abraham and his seed for ever.
Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost;
as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

THE SECOND LESSON: Romans 1:28—2:11

And since they did not see fit to acknowledge God, God gave them up to a debased mind and to things that should not be done. They were filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, covetousness, malice. Full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, craftiness, they are gossips, slanderers, God-haters, insolent, haughty, boastful, inventors of evil, rebellious toward parents, foolish, faithless, heartless, ruthless. They know God’s decree, that those who practice such things deserve to die—yet they not only do them but even applaud others who practice them. Therefore you have no excuse, whoever you are, when you judge others; for in passing judgment on another you condemn yourself, because you, the judge, are doing the very same things. You say, “We know that God’s judgment on those who do such things is in accordance with truth.” Do you imagine, whoever you are, that when you judge those who do such things and yet do them yourself, you will escape the judgment of God? Or do you despise the riches of his kindness and forbearance and patience? Do you not realize that God’s kindness is meant to lead you to repentance? But by your hard and impenitent heart you are storing up wrath for yourself on the day of wrath, when God’s righteous judgment will be revealed. For he will repay according to each one’s deeds: to those who by patiently doing good seek for glory and honor and immortality, he will give eternal life; while for those who are self-seeking and who obey not the truth but wickedness, there will be wrath and fury. There will be anguish and distress for everyone who does evil, the Jew first and also the Greek, but glory and honor and peace for everyone who does good, the Jew first and also the Greek. For God shows no partiality.

Then follows

Versicle Into your hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit; Response For you have redeemed me, O Lord, O God of truth.
Versicle Keep us, O Lord, as the apple of your eye;
Response Hide us under the shadow of your wings.

Officiant Lord, have mercy.
Choir Christ, have mercy.
Officiant Lord, have mercy.
Choir Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your Name,
your kingdom come,
your will be done,
on earth as in heaven.
Give us today our daily bread.
Forgive us our sins
as we forgive those who sin against us.
Save us from the time of trial,
and deliver us from evil.

The Officiant then says the following Collects

Be our light in the darkness, O Lord, and in your great mercy defend us from all perils and dangers of this night; for the love of your only Son, our Savior Jesus Christ. Amen.

Look down, O Lord, from your heavenly throne, and illumine this night with your celestial brightness; that by night as by day your people may glorify your holy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.
Keep watch, dear Lord, with those who work, or watch, or weep this night, and give your angels charge over those who sleep. Tend the sick, Lord Christ; give rest to the weary, bless the dying, soothe the suffering, pity the afflicted, shield the joyous; and all for your love’s sake. Amen.

THE SONG OF SIMEON
Nunc dimittis

Nunc dimittis servum tuum, Domine, secundum verbum tuum in pace:
Quia viderunt oculi mei salutare tuum
Quod parasti ante faciem omnium populorum Lumen ad revelationem gentium, plebis tuae Israel.

Gloria Patri, et Filio, et Spiritui Sancto:
Sicut erat in principio, et nunc, et semper, et in saecula saeculorum. Amen.

Words: Luke 2:29-32, with Gloria Patri
Music: Arvo Pärt (b. 1935)

Officiant
Let us bless the Lord.
Choir
Thanks be to God.

The Officiant concludes

The almighty and merciful Lord, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, bless us and keep us. Amen.

ANTHEM: Sleep

The evening hangs beneath the moon,
A silver thread on darkened dune.
With closing eyes, and resting head
I know that sleep is coming soon.

Upon my pillow, safe in bed,
A thousand pictures fill my head.
I can not sleep my minds aflight;
and yet my limbs seem made of lead.

If there are noises in the night,
A frightening shadow, flickering light,
Then I surrender unto sleep,
Where clouds of dream, give second sight,

What dreams may come both dark and deep,
Of flying wings and soaring leap
As I surrender unto sleep,
As I surrender unto sleep.

“Lay a Garland”

Lay a garland

Lay a garland on her hearse of dismal yew.
Maidens, willow branches wear,
say she died true.
Her love was false, but she was firm
Upon her buried body lie lightly, thou gentle earth.

Words: from The Maid’s Tragedy (1608-11) by Francis Beaumont (1584-1616) and John Fletcher (1579-1625)

Robert Lucas de Pearsall (1795-1856)

Three Flower Songs

I. I hide myself

I hide myself within my flower that wearing on your breast,
You, unsuspecting wear me too
and angels know the rest.
I hide myself within my flower
that fading from your vase, you, unsuspecting feel for me almost a loneliness...

Words: Emily Dickinson (1830-1886)

Eric Whitacre (b. 1970)

II. With a lily in your hand

With a lily in your hand
I leave you, O my night love!
Little widow of my single star
I find you.
Tamer of dark butterflies!
I keep along my way.
After a thousand years are gone
you’ll see me,
O my night love!
By the blue footpath,
tamer of dark stars,
I'll make my way.
Until the universe can fit inside
my heart.

Words: Frederico Garcia Lorca (1898-1936), translated by Jerome Rothenberg

III. Go, lovely rose

Go, lovely rose
Tell her that wastes her time and me,
That now she knows,
When I resemble her to thee,
How sweet and fair she seems to be.
Tell her that's young,
And shuns to have her graces spied,
That hadst thou sprung
In deserts where no men abide,
Thou must have uncommended died.
Small is the worth
Of beauty from the light retired;
Bid her come forth,
Suffer herself to be desired,
And not blush so to be admired.
Then die! That she
The common fate of all things rare
May read in thee;
How small a part of time they share,
That are so wondrous sweet and fair!

Words: Edmund Waller (1606-1687)

Invocation

I call you and I seek you, O Man, in whom man’s history finds its body.
I go towards you and do not say ‘come’
but simply ‘be’.

Be where there is no record, yet where man was,
was with his soul, his heart, desire, suffering, and will,
consumed by feeling, burnt by most holy shame.
Be an eternal seismograph of the invisible but real.

Oh, Man, in whom our lowest depths meet our heights, for whom what is within is not a dark burden but the heart.
Man in whom each man can find his deep design,
and the roots of his deeds: the mirror of life and death eyeing the human flux.
Through the shallows of history I always reach you walking towards each heart, walking towards each thought (history—the overcrowding of thoughts, death of hearts).
I seek your body for all history.
I seek your depth.

Take him, earth, for cherishing

Take him, earth, for cherishing
To thy tender breast receive him.
Body of a man I bring thee,
Noble even in its ruin.

Once was this a spirit's dwelling,
By the breath of God created.
High the heart that here was beating,
Christ the prince of all its living.

Guard him well, the dead I give thee,
Not unmindful of his creature
Shall he ask it: he who made it Symbol of his mystery.

Comes the hour God hath appointed
To fulfill the hope of men,
Then must thou, in very fashion,
What I give, return again.

Not though ancient time decaying
Wear away these bones to sand,
Ashes that a man might measure
In the hollow of his hand:

Not though wandering winds and idle,
Drifting through the empty sky,
Scatter dust was nerve and sinew,
Is it given to man to die.

Once again the shining road
Leads to ample Paradise;
Open are the woods again
That the Serpent lost for men.

Take, O take him, mighty Leader,
Take again thy servant's soul.
Grave his name, and pour the fragrant
Balm upon the icy stone.

I. Salvator mundi

O Savior of the world, who by thy cross and thy precious blood

save us and help us,
we humbly beseech thee, O Lord.

Words: Matins Antiphon for the Feast of the Holy Cross

II. Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd;
therefore can I lack nothing.
He shall feed me in a green pasture,
and lead me forth beside the waters of comfort.
He shall convert my soul,
and bring me forth in the paths of righteousness for his name’s sake.
Yea, though I walk in the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil;
thy rod and thy staff comfort me.
Thou shalt prepare a table before me against them that trouble me;
thou hast anointed my head with oil, and my cup shall be full.
But thy loving-kindness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

III. Requiem aeternam

Requiem aeternam dona eis.
Et lux perpetua luceat eis.
Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine.

Eternal rest grant unto them.
And let light perpetual shine upon them.
Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord.

IV. Psalm 121

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills;
from whence cometh my help.
My help cometh even from the Lord,
who hath made heaven and earth.
He will not suffer thy foot to be moved; *
and he that keepeth thee will not sleep.

Behold, he that keepeth Israel *
shall neither slumber nor sleep.

The Lord himself is thy keeper; *
he is thy defense upon thy right hand;

So that the sun shall not burn thee by day, *
neither the moon by night.

The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil; *
yea, it is even he that shall keep thy soul.

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in, *
from this time forth and for evermore.

V. Requiem aeternam

VI. I heard a voice from heaven

I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me,
Write,
From henceforth blessed are the dead which die in the Lord:
even so saith the Spirit,
for they rest from their labors.

Words: Revelation 14:3

THE FIRST LESSON: Isaiah 61:1-3

The spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me; he has sent me to bring good news to the oppressed, to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and release to the prisoners; to proclaim the year of the Lord’s favor, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all who mourn; to provide for those who mourn in Zion—to give them a garland instead of ashes, the oil of gladness instead of mourning, the mantle of praise instead of a faint spirit. They will be called oaks of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, to display his glory.

1 LORD, you have searched me | out and | known me; *
you know my sitting down and my rising up;

   where | can I | flee from • your | presence?

THE SECOND LESSON: 1 Corinthians 12:4-14

Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit; and there are varieties of services, but the same Lord; and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who activates all of them in everyone. To each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good. To one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom, and to another the utterance of knowledge according to the same Spirit, to another faith by the same Spirit, to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit, to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another the discernment of spirits, to another various kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues. All these are activated by one and the same Spirit, who allots to each one individually just as the Spirit chooses. For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. For in the one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks, slaves or free—and we were all made to drink of one Spirit. Indeed, the body does not consist of one member but of many.

THE INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS OF THE ASSOCIATION OF ANGLICAN MUSICIANS

A designated Past President addresses the Membership.

Sisters and Brothers in Christ Jesus, we are all baptized by the one Spirit into one Body and given gifts for a variety of ministries for the common good. Our purpose here is to commission these persons as the Board of the Association of Anglican Musicians.

A Past President then addresses the Chaplain

Right Reverend Father in God, I present to you these persons to be admitted to the ministry of Officers of the Association of Anglican Musicians.

Officers

David commanded the chief of the Levites to appoint musicians who should play loudly on musical instruments, on harps and lyres and cymbals, to raise sounds of joy.

Past President

When the song was raised in the praise of the Lord:

Membership

The glory of the Lord filled the house of God.

The Chaplain addresses the Membership.

You have elected those who stand before you to serve as the Board of the Association of Anglican Musicians. Do you believe them to be prepared by a commitment to Jesus Christ, by regular attendance at worship, by a commitment to strengthen the music and worship of this Communion through liturgy and music, and by a willing heart to serve this Association in this ministry?

Membership

We do.

Chaplain

Will you support them in this ministry and uphold them in your prayers?

Membership

We will.

The Chaplain addresses the Officers.

Will you faithfully execute your duties to the honor of God and the benefit of this Association?

Officers

Chaplain

Let us pray.

A brief period of silence is observed.

O Lord Jesus Christ, whose glory the cherubim and seraphim and all the hosts of heaven with ceaseless voice proclaim; Hear and accept, we pray, the praises of your Church below, and pour down upon your ministers in choir and sanctuary such a spirit of faith, reverence, and joy as shall lift both their hymns and their lives to you. Grant to these officers of the Association of Anglican Musicians the faith to seek your will for their task of guiding this Association in its work, and the wisdom to seek and recognize your call in the life of it. Strengthen also, we pray, those who form the membership of this Association that they may be steadfast in support of their chosen leaders. Dedicate us all anew this day, and grant us to know you that we may truly love you, and to love you that we may fully serve you, whom to serve is perfect freedom; who lives and reigns with the Father and the Holy Spirit, now and for ever. The Great Thanksgiving: Eucharistic Prayer C

Celebrant  The Lord be with you.
People    And also with you.
Celebrant  Lift up your hearts.
People    We lift them to the Lord.
Celebrant  Let us give thanks to the Lord our God.
People    It is right to give God thanks and praise.

Then facing the Holy Table, the Celebrant proceeds

God of all power, Ruler of the Universe, you are worthy of glory and praise.
Glory to you for ever and ever.

At your command all things came to be: the vast expanse of interstellar space, galaxies, suns, the planets in their courses, and this fragile earth, our island home.
By your will they were created and have their being.

From the primal elements you brought forth the human race, and blessed us with memory, reason, and skill. You made us the rulers of creation. But we turned against you, and betrayed your trust; and we turned against one another.
Have mercy, Lord, for we are sinners in your sight.

Again and again, you called us to return. Through prophets and sages you revealed your righteous Law. And in the fullness of time you sent your only Son, born of a woman, to fulfill your Law, to open for us the way of freedom and peace.
By his blood, he reconciled us. By his wounds, we are healed.

And therefore we praise you, joining with the heavenly chorus, with prophets, apostles, and martyrs, and with all those in every generation who have looked to you in hope, to proclaim with them your glory, in their unending hymn:

The Choir sings

Sanctus and Benedictus

Benedictus qui venit Blessed is he that cometh in Nomine Domini. in the Name of the Lord. Hosanna in excelsis. Hosanna in the highest.

The People stand or kneel. The Celebrant continues

And so, Father, we who have been redeemed by him, and made a new people by water and the Spirit, now bring before you these gifts. Sanctify them by your Holy Spirit to be the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ our Lord.

On the night he was betrayed he took bread, said the blessing, broke the bread, and gave it to his friends, and said, “Take, eat: This is my Body, which is given for you. Do this for the remembrance of me.”
After supper, he took the cup of wine, gave thanks, and said, “Drink this, all of you: This is my Blood of the new Covenant, which is shed for you and for many for the forgiveness of sins. Whenever you drink it, do this for the remembrance of me.”

Remembering now his work of redemption, and offering to you this sacrifice of thanksgiving,
We celebrate his death and resurrection, as we await the day of his coming.

Lord God of our Fathers: God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ: Open our eyes to see your hand at work in the world about us. Deliver us from the presumption of coming to this Table for solace only, and not for strength; for pardon only, and not for renewal. Let the grace of this Holy Communion make us one body, one spirit in Christ, that we may worthily serve the world in his name.
Risen Lord, be known to us in the breaking of the Bread.

Accept these prayers and praises, Father, through Jesus Christ our great High Priest, to whom, with you and the Holy Spirit, your Church gives honor, glory, and worship, from generation to generation. AMEN.

THE LORD’S PRAYER

Celebrant And now, as our Savior Christ has taught us, we are bold to say,
All

Our Father, who art in heaven,
hallowed be thy Name,
thy kingdom come,
thy will be done,
on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our trespasses,
as we forgive those who trespass against us.
And lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from evil.
For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory,
for ever and ever. Amen.

THE BREAKING OF THE BREAD

Celebrant Alleluia. Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us;
People Therefore let us keep the feast. Alleluia.

Celebrant The Gifts of God for the People of God. Take them in remembrance that Christ died for you, and feed on him in your hearts by faith, with thanksgiving.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT OFFERINGS

Clergy Day
Wednesday, June 18, 2014—Alexandria, VA

Chanted Morning Prayer will be led by The Rev’d Erika L. Takacs, officiant, in light-filled and reverberant Callaway Chapel of Episcopal High School.

The Rev’d Dr. Francis H. Wade will address assembled musicians and clergy on topics of concern that center around liturgy, music, and our common vocation. Frank Wade is considered “a priest to priests” in the Washington, DC, area because of his wisdom and pastoral sensitivity. Those skills will be brought to bear in framing discussions of interest to conferees, regardless of their vocation.

A panel discussion of current issues of interest to musicians and clergy will be moderated by the Dean and President of Virginia Theological Seminary, the Very Rev’d Ian S. Markham, Ph.D. Other members of the panel include the diocesan bishops of Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, The Rt. Rev’ds Eugene Taylor Sutton, Shannon Johnston, and Mariann Edgar Budde respectively, as well as AAM Chaplain, the Rt. Rev’d Keith B. Whitmore, Assistant Bishop of Atlanta; musician panelists include Janette Fishell, Professor of Music and Chair of the Organ Department at Indiana University, the Rev’d Erika L. Takacs, a highly skilled musician who serves as Associate Rector of St. Mark’s, Philadelphia, and AAM past-president Richard Webster, Director of Music and Organist at Trinity Church, Copley Square, Boston.

After a buffet luncheon, hosted by the Dean of Virginia Seminary, conferees will have their choice among several activities: 1) a guided walking tour of the campus; 2) a display of drawings and artist renderings of the new Immanuel Chapel, nearing completion; 3) a question and answer session with Taylor and Boody Organbuilders, creators of the instrument for the new chapel, including drawings and pictures of the VTS English-style organ. 4) the grand opening of the newly-acquired Douglas Collection, books, papers and hymnals of Canon Winfred Douglas, editor of both The Hymnal 1916 and The Hymnal 1940.

A service of music and readings will mark the culmination of a high school choral festival by young singers from area Episcopal schools and parishes. Designed to run concurrently with the AAM conference, the festival is led by conference conductor-in-residence Julian Wachner, of the Washington Chorus and Trinity, Wall Street, New York. Wachner will also lead rehearsals of the Conference Choir (comprised of conference attendees) throughout the week. The Conference Choir will be featured during the afternoon service of music and readings, as well as at Choral Evensong.

At Christ Church, Alexandria, conferees will have a choice of attending an Afternoon Tea or a Donors’ Reception, after which clergy will have three workshop choices: a session with the Rev’d Dr. Frank Wade, a class on chanting the liturgy by VTS professor of church music The Rev’d Dr. William Bradley Roberts, or observing the rehearsal for Evensong, led by Julian Wachner.

The afternoon concludes with Evensong at Christ Church, Alexandria, sung by the Conference Choir. The service features the premieres of two new works: a hymn on the common ministry of musicians and clergy by hymnist Carl P. Daw, Jr., and composer Howard Helvey, and a new unison with descant anthem setting of Psalm 121 by New York composer Caleb Burhans.

The free evening offers conferees the option of exploring and dining in charming Old Town Alexandria or returning early to the hotel.

An additional attractive option is taking a bus to near-by St. Mary’s, Arlington, for the service of Compline.

The evening concludes with bus travel (or Metro train, if later) back to the conference hotel.
Planning Liturgies for Same-Sex Blessings in the Episcopal Church
Thursday, June 19, 2014, at 9:15 a.m.—The Key Bridge Marriott
The Rev’d Canon James A. Newman

In 1976 a General Convention resolution affirmed “the love, acceptance, and pastoral concern and care of the Church” for homosexual persons. Since that time, some congregations and clergy of the Episcopal Church have offered blessings of same-sex relationships, and some dioceses have developed liturgies for such blessings. Resolution C051 of the 2003 General Convention called for “liturgies celebrating and blessing same-sex unions.” And six years later, Resolution C056 of the 2009 General Convention directed the Standing Commission on Liturgy and Music to “collect and develop theological and liturgical resources.” Clergy and parish musicians today more frequently have opportunities to plan liturgy and music for such celebrations, and in this workshop, Canon Jim Newman will name and explore numerous resources that are presently available.

Servant Leadership for Musicians: More Than Conflict and Closure
Thursday, June 19, 2014, at 9:15 a.m.—The Key Bridge Marriott
William Saviers, Esq., and Dr. David Ouzts

The AAM handbook “Conflict and Closure” has faithfully served our organization since its first edition in 1994 and has this year been re-released as “Servant Leadership for Musicians: A Vocational Handbook for Ministry,” in which the opening section deals with developmental learning, gifts and talents, functionality, servant leadership, and vocational call. Bill Saviers and David Ouzts will lead this workshop and present this new handbook edition as a basis for discussion about professional development, personal vision, and continued successful employment in parish ministry.

JULIAN WACHNER is one of North America’s most exciting and versatile musicians, sought after as conductor, composer, and keyboard artist. Recent and upcoming engagements include those with the Lincoln Center Festival (The Blind), BAM Next Wave Festival (Liederabend 2013), Juilliard Opera Theatre (2013 Mainstage), The Rolling Stones (50th anniversary tour), New York City Opera (VOX), Hong Kong Philharmonic, TENET (TENEBrae), Portland Baroque (Messiah), and Carnegie Hall (Arvo Pärt’s Passio).

As Director of Music and the Arts at New York’s historic Trinity Wall Street, Wachner oversees an annual season of over 900 events, including Trinity’s numerous and varied concert offerings, series and festivals, museum expositions, dance and theatre performances, poetry and literary readings, and educational/outreach initiatives in lower Manhattan and Brooklyn in partnership with New York City’s public school system.

At Trinity Wall Street, Wachner serves as the Principal Conductor of NOVUS NY (Trinity’s resident contemporary music orchestra), and the Trinity Baroque Orchestra and Choir of Trinity Wall Street, nominated for a 2012 Grammy award for its recording of Handel’s complete Israel in Egypt. He also is the director of Bach at One, Trinity’s weekly performances of the cantatas of J.S. Bach.

Wachner is also Music Director of the Grammy Award-winning Washington Chorus, with whom he won ASCAP’s Alice Parker award for adventurous programming in 2011. Wachner has also made memorable guest appearances with such major organizations as the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Montreal and Pittsburgh Symphonies, Spoleto Festival U.S.A., the Handel and Haydn Society, Glimmerglass Opera, Hawaii Opera Theater, New York City Opera, and the Boston Pops. A Baroque specialist, he was the founding Music Director of the Boston Bach Ensemble and the Bach Académie de Montréal, besides serving as Artistic Director of International Bach Festivals in Boston and Montreal. In 2011, he founded New York City’s newest music festival, The Twelfth Night Festival of Early Music, most recently presented in collaboration with Gotham Early Music Society (GEMS) and featuring many of New York’s leading baroque and renaissance ensembles.

In 2010, Wachner made New York City Opera history when he was selected as both conductor and composer at the company’s annual VOX festival of contemporary opera leading to the invitation to be the sole conductor of this Festival in 2012. His original music has been variously described as “jazzy, energetic, and ingenious” (Boston Globe), having “splendor, dignity, outstanding tone combinations, sophisticated chromatic exploration. . . a rich backdrop, wavier between a glimmer and a tingle. . .” (La Scena Musicale), being “a compendium of surprises” (Washington Post), and as “bold and atmospheric,” having “an imaginative flair for allusive text setting,” and noted for “the silken complexities of his harmonies” (New York Times). The American Record Guide noted that “Wachner is both an unapologetic modernist and an open-minded eclectic—his music has something to say.” E.C. Schirmer publishes his complete catalogue, comprising over eighty titles.

Wachner’s performances inspire uncommon praise. The New York Times pronounced his Trinity Wall Street debut “superbly performed” and, this season, noted that the ensemble’s annual Lincoln Center presentation of Handel’s Messiah was “led with both fearsome energy and delicate grace. . . a model of what is musically and emotionally possible with this venerable score.” Of his interpretation of Bach’s St. Matthew Passion, according to the Boston Globe, “there was genius here and no mistaking it.” Anne Midgette, of The Washington Post, declared recent Wagner and Verdi performances “exhilarating,” commenting: “Julian Wachner knows how to draw maximum drama from a score,” and noted that he was “emphatic and theatrical and so at home in opera that he could bring out the requisite sense of drama.” Following his account of Messiah at the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Inquirer’s David Patrick Stearns observed: “Few conductors have drawn such focused, committed, and meticulous music-making as Julian Wachner. . . [He] built the music, line by line, as an architectural edifice, serving both the music’s emotional and more purely aesthetic elements.” As a result, Stearns “couldn’t help fantasize that [Wachner] might do an annual Philadelphia Orchestra festival of Bach and Handel.”

An award-winning organist and improvisateur, Wachner’s solo recital at the Spoleto Festival U.S.A. featured an improvised finale that inspired one reviewer to conclude: “This stupefying wizardry was the hit of the recital, and it had to be heard to be believed” (Post and Courier, South Carolina). As a concert pianist, in his recent Kennedy Center Rachmaninoff performance, The Washington Post noted “Wachner dazzled with some bravura keyboard work, both in the rhapsodic accompaniments to the songs and. . . in the highly virtuosic transcription of the Dances.”

Wachner’s recordings are with the Chandos, Naxos, Arsis, Dorian, Musica Omnia, and Titanic labels.

CATHERDA Chamber Choir is Washington National Cathedral’s chamber ensemble and is comprised of professional singers from the Washington, DC region. The group specializes in both a cappella choral works and chamber choral works with orchestra.

THE CHOIR OF ST. MARTIN-IN-THE-FIELDS, LONDON, an ensemble of around twenty volunteers, is of a standard comparable to the best professional London church choirs and is well known through its frequent broadcasts on BBC Radio and Television. The choir sings at the Parish Eucharist and Choral Evensong each Sunday. This is complemented by extra seasonal services—particularly during Advent, Christmas, Holy Week, and Easter. The Choir took part in Radio 4’s Christmas morning broadcast in December 2010, as well as Radio 2’s Sunday Half Hour seventieth anniversary program, and a broadcast of Jazz Choral Evensong on BBC Radio 3.

The Choir has recorded three CDs: Christmas at St Martin-in-the-Fields (2009), a CD of jazz choral music Evensong in Blue (2011), and, most recently, a recording in collaboration with the National Gallery, The Art of Worship (2011).

The Choir is supplemented by Choral Scholars. The Choral Scholars have an essential musical role at St. Martin-in-the-Fields. Every year ten scholars—many of whom are music college students or graduates—are appointed to sing Choral Eucharist and Evensong every Wednesday during term time. They also gain concert experience, and benefit from an extensive program of training in different aspects of church and choral music. Recent highlights include participating in A Celebration for Ascension Day, live on BBC Radio 4 under the direction of John Rutter, and performing with Streetwise Opera and Woven Gold in a concert in aid of the Connection at St. Martin’s. The choral scholars recently took part in a recording of BBC Radio 4’s Sunday Worship program from Holy Island in Northumberland.

CHRIST CHURCH, ALEXANDRIA, was founded as a parish within the Church of England prior to the American Revolution. Construction of the Georgian-style church began in 1767 and was completed in 1773. On several occasions, the interior suffered modifications, but it now appears as it did in the 1890s after a restoration consistent with the original Georgian detailing. The Palladian chancel window is an unusual feature in a colonial Virginia church. James Wren, who created the architectural drawings and specifications for Christ Church, also hand-lettered the panels that flank the window. A 1602 canon of the Church of England directed that the Ten Commandments “be set upon the East-end of every Church and Chapel where the people may best see and read the same, and other chosen Sentences.” At Christ Church, these also include the Apostles’ Creed, the Lord’s Prayer, and the Golden Rule. The background of the panels was originally white, but over the years it has mellowed into the soft gold seen today. The panels have never been retouched. No record remains of the exact location and design of the earliest pulpit, but the wineglass pulpit, installed during the 1890s restoration, is consistent with the design, location, and liturgical practices of the period when the church was built.

James Wren’s plans spaced the windows “to admit of galleries,” which the church added in about 1787 when attendance had outgrown available seating on the main level. The lower portion of the bell tower provided the stairway to the galleries: the upper section was added about 1820. The small chandelier under the west gallery, purchased in 1817, initially hung in the center of the church.

Christ Church has been associated with many notable figures of American history. George Washington was first elected to the Truro Parish in 1762. The parish, a geographic area, included Alexandria, Fairfax, Falls Church, and Mount Vernon. Washington bought and later rented a box family pew and attended services when in Alexandria. Visitors today can sit in the Washington pew. Robert E. Lee also attended Christ Church throughout his life from the time he was three. A silver plaque on the chancel rail marks the spot, where on July 17, 1853, with two of his daughters, Lee knelt to be confirmed by the assistant bishop of Virginia, John Johns. Lee married George Washington’s step-great-granddaughter, Mary Anna Randolph Custis.

The churchyard was the burying ground for the town of Alexandria until 1809. Later interments took place at the Christ Church cemetery on Wilkes Street.

The Civil War abruptly altered life at Christ Church. When the U.S. Army occupied Alexandria in 1861, it seized many churches for use as hospitals or stables. However, the reputation of Christ Church as George Washington’s place of worship preserved it as a church where U.S. Army chaplains conducted services. Parishioners who remained in the area worshiped elsewhere. In 1866, Christ Church, its interior intact, was restored to its parishioners. Ironically, the postwar years saw more changes to the interior of Christ Church than did the war years. During this period, the Rev’d Randolph H. McKim modernized it to Victorian tastes, but the 1890s restoration restored its Georgian integrity.

The president of the United States traditionally visits Christ Church during his administration, often on a Sunday near Washington’s birthday. Some presidential visits, however, have been in conjunction with other events, most notably the January 1, 1942, visit by President Franklin Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill for the World Day of Prayer for Peace during World War II.

Today, Christ Church embodies God’s unbounded love by embracing, liberating, and empowering people whoever they are and wherever they find themselves on their journeys of faith. Outreach and mission programs—both global and local—seek to bring social justice to all God wants us to serve, extending from helping the homeless and underprivileged of Alexandria to assisting abandoned girls in Honduras, mothers and children living with HIV/AIDS in Uganda, children in the Holy Land, and the persecuted church in Sudan.

THE CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY was founded in 1842, and the granting of parish status occurred in 1844. Later, on June 3, 1852, the current church building was consecrated.

Since its early days, and given its location in the center of Washington, DC, the parish has welcomed a number of notable figures through its doors, as well as hosting important events. On March 6, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln attended the funeral of Union
Army General Frederick Lander at the Church of the Epiphany. Twenty-three years later, the rector of the parish, the Rev’d William Paret, was consecrated as the sixth bishop of Maryland at Epiphany. Renowned clergyman Bishop Phillips Brooks (famous for penning the carol “O little town of Bethlehem”) preached to a standing-room only congregation at the opening session of the Church Convention in 1891. In May of 1895, the Maryland Diocesan Convention met at the church, and it was during this meeting that the Diocese of Washington was created. (Later in 1923, the Rev’d James Freeman, serving as rector of the parish, would be consecrated as Bishop of Washington at Epiphany.) The General Convention of the Episcopal Church was held at the church in 1898.

During the Second World War, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt attended a Christmas service, and from 1942 to 1945, the Armed Forces Canteen and Wartime Prayer Center was established at the parish. As far back as the Civil War, the church was used as a means of outreach and mission. In 1862, the church was used as a hospital for Union troops. Later, in 1897, the Episcopal Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital (later named Washington Hospital Center) was instituted, largely funded by the Church of the Epiphany. The parish’s identity as a major source of outreach in downtown DC was continued in 1995 when the Welcome Table ministry began. Welcome Table provides food, social interaction, and worship (including a choir) for around 150 of downtown DC’s poor. To this day, the Church of the Epiphany is known for its social witness in Washington, DC. Music likewise serves as a source of outreach, and Epiphany has had a thriving concert series for a number of years. The Washington Bach Consort frequently appears in concert at the Church of the Epiphany.

EPISCOPAL HIGH SCHOOL was founded in 1839, on an eighty-acre tract of land just west of the colonial port of Alexandria, Virginia. School doors opened with thirty-five boys under the leadership of the Rev’d William N. Pendleton and three assistant heads. Just one year later, Episcopal’s student body tripled in size to accommodate more than 100 boys, and continued to grow until the Civil War. Immediately following the Federal occupation of Alexandria in 1861, the School was closed. Some 500 students served as soldiers in the war. For the next five years, the EHS buildings were part of a large hospital for Federal troops.

The School reopened in 1866. Under the direction of Launcelot Minor Blackford (Principal, 1870-1913), the School initiated a modern academic curriculum and pioneered interscholastic team sports in the South, including football, baseball, and track. Recognizing the need to improve its facilities, the school also undertook an aggressive building program that formed the foundation for the present-day campus.

During the same time, Episcopal instituted its Honor Code one of the oldest among secondary schools. A committee of students and faculty members promotes understanding of the code and handles violations. The Honor Code has served as a foundation of the EHS community since its inception.

In 1991, Episcopal began a transition to coeducation by enrolling its first forty-eight girls. In 1993, the first coeducational class graduated. Today, the school has an enrollment of 435 students, fifty percent of whom are girls.

Episcopal has many accomplished alumni among its ranks: Rhodes Scholars, Pulitzer Prize winners, Wall Street financiers, college presidents, actors, musicians, clergymen, and statesmen, including congressmen, governors, and ambassadors.

THE GEORGE TOWN CLUB was formed in 1966 for the purpose of bringing together leaders who had an impact on the United States and the world through their work in various business, professional, civic, social, and political milieus. Since then the Club has been a focal point for entertaining prominent Washingtonians, diplomats, socialites and leaders in business, government, and academia. Diplomatic missions of many nations are represented in the membership. Many members of the United States Senate, Congress, and the Supreme Court have been included as guests at the Club, along with a number of presidents.

The Club occupies one of the few remaining eighteenth-century frame buildings in the historic port district of Georgetown, and is believed to have been John Suter’s Tavern, circa 1783. In that era, inns and taverns were the focal points of community life in addition to offering food, drink and lodging—true “public houses” where political debate, civic meetings and business deals were common. At Suter’s Tavern, President George Washington, surveyor Andrew Ellicott, and capital architect Major Pierre L’Enfant met at least three times to plan the Federal City that would become Washington, District of Columbia. When plans were complete, the first plats for the city were auctioned off at the tavern.

When the George Town Club was formed in 1966, the founders extensively renovated the run-down historic building. They added the brick entryway, excavated the lower level, imported European paneling, chandeliers, furniture and artwork, and rescued the wrought iron work by Samuel Yellin from the demolition of the original Morgan Guaranty Trust Bank in New York. Over time, two adjacent brick townhouses were incorporated into the growing Club and were finished with the same care and detail as the original rooms.

The unusual arched oak doors and carvings in the Foyer are French sixteenth century from a small estate south of Paris. The bas-relief portraits on the doors and the paneling feature the heirs to the French throne at that time. The Living Room walls are entirely of English Tudor walnut linen-fold paneling produced by craftsman of royal warrant. The same paneling is found at Hampton Court, begun by Cardinal Wolsey and finished by Henry VIII. The wall sconces are Baccarat crystal. Standing guard along the stairs are life-sized sixteenth-century figures of warriors.

Next door, the Library reflects the dark opulence of American Victoriana, with satin-finished mahogany walls and lush pastoral French verdure tapestry. The large bay window is draped in antique velvet, surmounted by an intricate brass cornice.

The airy Garden Room is a classic nineteenth-century reception room, with daylight pouring in through leaded glass clerestory windows and nighttime illumination from a four-floor crystal chandelier and sconces. The outdoor ambience of the room is a bright and lively change from the more formal areas of the Club.

On the second floor, the extraordinary oak paneling in the Main Dining Room was created after the style of Robert Adams, who was England’s premier architect in the late 1700s about the same time as the construction of the building. It features figures found in artifacts discovered in Pompeii—mythical animals, cherubs, satyrs, serpents, horses, and mermaids. At either end of the sideboard are fishing vessel figureheads, framing a leaded glass demi-lune that was originally a feature of J.P. Morgan’s private office.

The Founders’ Room offers members an intimate setting for private dining under soft natural light filtered through a skylight draped with a delicate chiffon rosette. At the end of the long hall, past the intimate Small Dining Room, is the formal Georgian Dining Room, designed with the symmetry that was so important in that period. This classic room, warmed by sunlight during the day and the fireplace at night, also houses the Club’s collection of fine Korean celadon ware. During World War II, this room was part of a rooming house for a few of the thousands of young women who came to Washington to help with the war effort.

Near the bottom of the main stairs, the Williamsburg Room is an authentic reproduction of a late seventeenth-century tavern, reminiscent of the Raleigh Tavern. Overhead brass chandeliers and wall sconces are replicas of those in the Governor’s Palace. The extraordinary warmth of the room comes from faux finished sienna walls, a patterned Axminster carpet, and the corner fireplace.

In the lower level of the Club, the Wine Cellar is paneled with oak in the same design as the Windsor Room in London’s Connaught Hotel. The bar alcove displays eighteenth-century French Repoussé brass panels depicting the four seasons. The iron gates enclosing the members’ private wine bins and the leaded glass door, like chandeliers in the foyer and main stairwell, are part of the J.P. Morgan Collection. Of special note are the wrought iron pineapples, miniature heads, and serpents atop the gates. The slate floor is from quarries once owned by Thomas Jefferson near his estate at Monticello.

More casual dining is available in the Grill, just off the Library but with its own entrance from the street. Besides casual dining at lunch and dinner, this intimate room is ideal for cocktails, late light fare, and dancing. Between the seated mirrored bar, to the disco-style dance floor, members and their guests can relax at small tables surrounded by comfortable chairs, settees, and understated art. Always dimly lighted, the Grill is the perfect venue for cozy gatherings or theme evenings featuring live music.
The Library of Congress was established by an act of Congress in 1800 when President John Adams signed a bill providing for the transfer of the seat of government from Philadelphia to the new capital city of Washington. The legislation described a reference library for Congress only, containing “such books as may be necessary for the use of Congress—and for putting up a suitable apartment for containing them therein...”

Established with $5,000 appropriated by the legislation, the original library was housed in the new Capitol until August 1814, when invading British troops set fire to the Capitol Building, burning and pillaging the contents of the small library. Within a month, retired President Thomas Jefferson offered his personal library as a replacement. Jefferson had spent fifty years accumulating books, “putting by everything which related to America, and indeed whatever was rare and valuable in every science”; his library was considered to be one of the finest in the United States. In offering his collection to Congress, Jefferson anticipated controversy over the nature of his collection, which included books in foreign languages and volumes of philosophy, science, literature, and other topics not normally viewed as part of a legislative library. He wrote, “I do not know that it contains any branch of science which Congress would wish to exclude from their collection; there is, in fact, no subject to which a Member of Congress may not have occasion to refer.”

In January 1815, Congress accepted Jefferson’s offer, appropriating $23,950 for his 6,487 books, and the foundation was laid for a great national library. The Jeffersonian concept of universality, the belief that all subjects are important to the library of the American legislature, is the philosophy and rationale behind the comprehensive collecting policies of today’s Library of Congress. Ainsworth Rand Spofford, Librarian of Congress from 1864 to 1897, applied Jefferson’s philosophy on a grand scale and built the Library into a national institution. Spofford was responsible for the copyright law of 1870, which required all copyright applicants to send to the Library two copies of their work. This resulted in a flood of books, pamphlets, maps, music, prints, and photographs. Facing a shortage of shelf space at the Capitol, Spofford convinced Congress of the need for a new building, and in 1873, Congress authorized a competition to design plans for the new Library.

In 1886, after many proposals and much controversy, Congress authorized construction of a new Library building in the style of the Italian Renaissance in accordance with a design prepared by Washington architects John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz. The Congressional authorization was successful because of the hard work of two key Senators: Daniel W. Voorhees (Indiana), who served as chairman of the Joint Committee from 1879 to 1881, and Justin S. Morrill (Vermont), chairman of Senate Committee on Buildings and Grounds.

In 1888, General Thomas Lincoln Casey, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, was placed in charge of construction. His chief assistant was Bernard R. Green, who was intimately involved with the building until his death in 1914. Beginning in 1892, a new architect, Edward Pearce Casey, the son of General Casey, began to supervise the interior work, including sculptural and painted decoration by more than fifty American artists. When the Library of Congress building opened its doors to the public on November 1, 1897, it was hailed as a glorious national monument and “the largest, the costliest, and the safest” library building in the world.

Today’s Library of Congress is an unparalleled world resource. The collection of more than 155 million items includes more than thirty-five million cataloged books and other print materials in 460 languages; more than sixty-eight million manuscripts; the largest rare book collection in North America; and the world’s largest collection of legal materials, films, maps, sheet music, and sound recordings.

The National Gallery of Art was conceived and given to the people of the United States by Andrew W. Mellon (1855–1937). Mellon was a financier and art collector from Pittsburgh who came to Washington in 1921 to serve as secretary of the treasury. During his years of public service he came to believe that the United States should have a national art museum equal to those of other great nations.

In 1936, Mellon wrote to President Franklin D. Roosevelt offering to donate his superb art collection for a new museum and to use his own funds to construct a building for its use. With the president’s support, Congress accepted Mellon’s gift, which included a sizable endowment, and established the National Gallery of Art in March 1937. Construction began that year at a site on the National Mall along Constitution Avenue between Fourth and Seventh Streets, NW, near the foot of Capitol Hill.

Andrew Mellon selected American architect John Russell Pope (1874–1937) to design the building for the new museum. This edifice, now known as the West Building, has formal public entrances on all four sides. Its main floor plan is centered on a rotunda that was modeled after the ancient Roman Pantheon. To the east and west of the Rotunda, barrel-vaulted sculpture halls lead to garden courts, where greenery and fountains provide a restful haven for visitors. Interconnected exhibition galleries extend to the north and south of these large public spaces in such a way that, in principle, a visitor can begin in one room and proceed through the collection without backtracking.

The West Building was designed in a classicizing style but built using the most modern technology of the time. Its exterior was constructed of pale pink Tennessee marble, while its foundations and first floor were formed of concrete with a steel framework. Polished limestone from Indiana and Alabama covers the walls on its main floor, and the Rotunda columns were fabricated in Vermont from Italian marble. The architect recognized the importance of natural light to illuminate and unite the exhibition spaces. To achieve this, Pope specified that skylights should cover virtually the entire three-acre roof.

Because Mellon believed that visitors should learn from as well as enjoy the art in the collection, works are exhibited by period and national origin in appropriately decorated galleries. The Italian Renaissance galleries, for instance, have Italian travertine wainscots and hand-finished plaster walls and are detailed with base and door surround moldings and include built-in niches to display sculpture, while Dutch seventeenth-century galleries are finished with wood paneling to evoke original settings.

Andrew Mellon and John Russell Pope died within twenty-four hours of each other in August 1937, not long after excavation for the West Building’s foundations had begun, but the museum was built in accordance with their concepts. Construction was completed by December 1940, and works of art were installed in the new galleries over the following months. The National Gallery of Art was dedicated on March 17, 1941, with Paul Mellon presenting the museum on behalf of his father, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt accepting the gift for the nation.

Andrew Mellon had anticipated that the collections of the National Gallery of Art would grow beyond the capacity of its original building, and at his request, Congress had set aside an adjacent plot of land for future use when it first established the National Gallery. By the time of the museum’s twenty-fifth anniversary in 1966, with most of its original galleries filled, space was needed for expansion.

In 1967, Andrew Mellon’s children, Paul Mellon and Ailsa Mellon Bruce, offered funds for a second building, and architect I.M. Pei (b. 1917) was selected to design it. The structure he conceived is modernist in style and was inspired and informed by its trapezoidal site, located between Pennsylvania Avenue and the National Mall and between Third and Fourth Streets, NW. To emphasize the connection between the two buildings, Pei placed the entrance to the East Building on Fourth Street, across an open plaza from the West Building. He divided the floor plan into two triangles: an isosceles triangle for exhibition spaces and public functions and a smaller right triangle for an administrative and study center. These triangular shapes define the building’s major spaces and are echoed and repeated in architectural elements throughout. A large triangular atrium is the dramatic focus of the building’s interior public space. A sculptural space frame covers the atrium and allows brilliant natural light to enter the building.

Much of the structure’s elegance results from its extraordinary building materials, spare lines, and soaring forms. The Tennessee quarries that supplied the marble for the West Building were reopened for the East Building to effect a visual harmony between the structures. An underground concourse and street-level cobblestone plaza provide a physical link between the two buildings. Seven glass tetrahedrons and a cascading waterfall in the plaza bring light and motion to the underground space.

Construction of the East Building began in 1971 and progressed slowly for seven years as workmen labored to realize the architect’s ambitious design goals. At the same time, artists such as Henry Moore and Alexander Calder were commissioned to create works for the East Building. On June 1, 1978, Paul Mellon and United States President Jimmy Carter dedicated the new museum to the people of the United States.
The National Press Club is perched atop the National Press Building within sight of the White House and just down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol. The National Press Club is the traditional meeting place in Washington for newsmakers and journalists.

On March 12, 1908, thirty-two newspapermen with $300 in their treasury and promises of support from 200 of their colleagues decided that a press club was feasible and elected officers to look into it. Meeting just seventeen days later in the F Street Parlor of the Willard Hotel, they framed a constitution for what they called the National Press Club. By May, the Club had rented two floors above a jewelry story at 1205 F Street, NW, and threw a housewarming party that drew not only hundreds of journalists but several members of Congress, diplomats, and Buffalo Bill Cody.

Right from the beginning the Club attracted noted figures of the era. Sarah Bernhardt, Charlie Chaplin, and Andrew Carnegie dropped by in those early days. William Howard Taft became the first president to visit the Club when he hoisted his 300-pound body up the stairs on New Year’s Day, 1910. He gave the bartender a rosebud from his lapel in exchange for a glass of water. Former President Theodore Roosevelt stopped by to tell of his exploits hunting big game in Africa and hint that he might run again in 1912. Woodrow Wilson visited often. He once said the Club was the one place in town where he could relax—something hard to imagine in today’s adversarial environment. Warren Harding, who was a newspaper publisher before he went into politics, voted in Club elections. During a World War II canteen for servicemen, then vice president Harry Truman played an upright piano while movie actress Lauren Bacall sat on top and draped her long legs seductively over the side to the soldiers’—and photographers’—delight.

As the Club rapidly expanded, it outgrew its first three homes. In the 1920s, the Club’s board decided to build a high-rise office building with the Club at the top. It would be filled with the Washington bureaus then scattered along 14th and F Streets, known as Newspaper Row. President Calvin Coolidge laid the cornerstone, and the fourteen-story building—the largest private office building in Washington at the time—opened in December 1927 with a spacious Club on the top two floors. In the early 1980s, the building was torn down to its girders and rebuilt while the Club kept functioning. In 2006, the Club added a Broadcast Operations Center that shoots and transmits news and events around the world.

Some historians believe the Club may have played a role in launching the Korean War. In January 1950 Secretary of State Dean Acheson outlined America’s “defense perimeter” in the Far East during a Club luncheon but did not include South Korea. Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin may have taken that as a green light to arm the North Koreans to invade the South. Both Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter announced their presidential bids at the Club, and George W. Bush introduced his national security team during the 2000 election. When Sen. Barack Obama visited the Club in 2006, he played second fiddle to movie actor George Clooney in a press conference about Darfur.

On any given day now, the Club is bustling with press conferences, newsmaker events, forums, and professional training. Hundreds of people pass through the Club daily looking to make news and to get news, looking for professional advancement and looking for fellowship. Members enjoy the restaurants—and yes, Graham Nichol would be pleased that the card room is still open. CBS Commentator Eric Severeid summed up what the Club means to its members. Speaking in 1982 in the ballroom where so many events had taken place, he called the Club the “sanctum sanctorum of American journalists. . . . It’s Westminster Hall, it’s Delphi, it’s Mecca. . . . the Wailing Wall for everybody in this country having anything to do with the news business; the only hallowed place I know that’s absolutely bursting with irreverence.”

St. Alban’s Parish has origins beginning with young Phoebe Nourse, granddaughter of Joseph Nourse, who owned the land named Mount Albam where the parish sits today. Joseph hoped a church would be built on the thirty-acre plot, but when he died in 1841, Mount Alban was sold. When Phoebe died in 1850 at the age of twenty-three, she left a small box containing forty dollars in gold that she earned from sale of her needlework. She left instructions that the money was for starting a fund to build a church on Mount Alban. Ground was broken for the church on the first anniversary of Phoebe’s death, and St. Alban’s opened its doors to worshippers on April 30, 1854. A tiny wooden structure with benches for the congregation, St. Alban’s had one bell, painted glass windows, and an altar of black walnut.

From that humble beginning, St. Alban’s has grown in its breadth of vision, the spirituality of extraordinary leadership, and its impact on the local community, the city, and the wider world. From its earliest days, St. Alban’s reached out to the surrounding neighborhoods, attracting new members for a growing congregation. The parish established missions—St. Columba’s and St. George’s in 1875, St. David’s in 1901, and All Souls and St. Patrick’s in 1911—four of which are now thriving, independent churches. St. Alban’s soon became a major urban parish.

Today, St. Alban’s is moving forward with an energetic faith. Following its 150-year tradition, it continues to serve the needs of the city, forging relationships with other churches to respond to these needs, building and sustaining organizations like the Community Council for the Homeless at Friendship Place, Samaritan Ministry of Greater Washington, and the Transitional Housing Corporation. Its members are empowered for Christian ministry. The parish’s involvement with the Episcopal Diocese of Washington provides leadership on many diocesan committees, and it contributes generously to the diocese and participates in regional assembly meetings and the annual diocesan convention.

St. Alban’s buildings are old and venerable. The church is a stately, stone-encased wooden edifice of gothic design, with an interior bathed in sunlight filtered by richly colored stained glass windows. Major renovations in 2006–2007 opened up the narthex, updated and expanded Nourse Hall, and added new lavatories, stairs, and an elevator. Nourse Hall, which adjoins the church, has meeting space for 200, choir rehearsal space, and a number of other smaller rooms. Satterlee Hall sits across from the church and has meeting space for 300, a large production-style kitchen, offices, smaller meeting rooms and a library. It houses the Opportunity Shop and classrooms for the church school and the St. Alban’s Early Childhood Center. The Warner Memorial Rectory, also across from the church, is a three-bedroom house now used for adult and youth education, meetings, and fellowship functions.

St. Alban’s Parish in Washington, DC, is beautifully sited in front of the Washington National Cathedral. It stands at a major crossroads of the vibrant social, ethnic, and racial mix that is the nation’s capital. From the most active members to drop-in visitors, St. Alban’s welcomes all.

St. Albans School was founded in 1907 as a chorister school for the then-unbuilt Cathedral. St. Albans School offers a distinctive educational experience for young men in grades 4 through 12 (Forms C through VI). While St. Albans students are expected to reach exceptional academic goals and exhibit first-rate athletic and artistic achievements, the school places equal emphasis upon moral and spiritual education. The school enjoys a privileged location adjacent Washington National Cathedral and overlooking the City of Washington, DC. These two breathtaking sights capture the essence that is St. Albans School—Pro Ecclesia et Pro Patria—for God and for Country.

St. Albans boys still serve as the Cathedral Choristers, and the school has over a third of its 550 boys actively engaged in choral, instrumental or other performing groups each year. Likewise, required chapel several times each week helps boys honor the spiritual values which are at the core of a St. Albans education, in the Episcopal Church tradition yet inclusive of all faith traditions. St. Albans students thrive on close relationships between faculty and students, on daily family-style lunches, on a challenging yet caring environment.

Inspired by its patron saint, the first British martyr, who was both Roman soldier and Christian convert, St. Albans impresses upon each boy the importance of putting Pro Ecclesia et Pro Patria into action. Graduation requirements include a large number of service hours in the community, students have ample opportunities for study and projects both in the Washington area and abroad, and a high percentage of alumni are engaged in public service vocations.

St. Albans students, while taking advantages of being a boys school, also enjoy a coordinate relationship with National Cathedral School, its sister school for girls on the northwest side of the Cathedral Close. This relationship allows the School to expand on its curricular, extracurricular, and social opportunities for its students, especially in the Performing Arts but also through athletics and academic courses.
St. Columba’s, D.C., celebrated its hundredth anniversary in 1974, a century after the Rev’d John H. Chew, rector of St. Alban’s, began holding services in Tennallytown on the Georgetown-Frederick Pike. He held services in several buildings in the area, in good weather, under an oak on a half-acre of land given to the church by William D.C. Murdock. In 1875, a rough mission chapel was built in the shade of the oak tree. A parish house was added in 1900 with a stage and a circulating library. At that time, about 200 families used the chapel’s spiritual and recreational resources. In 1904, St. Alban’s Jubilee Year, the chapel was given the name of St. Columba’s, for the Irish-born missionary to Scotland.

St. Columba’s community progressed and took over its own support in 1921, becoming an independent parish in 1924. On St. Columba’s Day, June 9, 1926, the cornerstone was laid for the present church building and the first services were held in it in April, 1927. The Albemarle Street wing of the present parish hall was completed in 1959. In 1981, the church interior was repaired and renovated, and a new tracker organ, built by the Flentrop Company in the Netherlands, was installed. The Albemarle Street parish hall wing was renovated in 1989, and the Butterworth Street wing and Common were added.

From the time of its founding, St. Columba’s has been a neighborhood church and a center for the community. During the rectorship of The Rev’d Randy Mengers, the parish planned for growth, opening St. Columba’s Nursery School and building a new parish hall. In the 1970s, under The Rev’d Bill Swing, growth accelerated with the reorganizing of the Sunday School based on a revitalized 9:15 a.m. service, the systematic building of choirs and other musical and drama groups, and with a variety of small groups. In the late ‘70s, St. Columba’s became the largest parish in the diocese.

In the 1980s, under The Rev’d Bill Tully, growth continued with added emphasis on outreach, small groups and personal spiritual growth, stewardship education, and ministry to newcomers, as well as the near-doubling of its physical space. In the 90s, the parish has continued to grow—in many dimensions—and the decade has also brought a desire to participate more fully in the life and needs of Washington, DC. That focus has led to development of a transitional program for women who have been homeless, a program to help support a city elementary school class through college, and a partnership with Holy Comforter Parish.

St. John’s, Georgetown, dates back to 1769, when land was set aside by the Church of England. It was the first Episcopal Church in Washington to be established west of Rock Creek, in 1796. Since then it has carried on a proud and dedicated ministry of mission and service to the Washington community. St. John’s was founded by early business and social leaders, including Francis Scott Key and Thomas Jefferson. The design of the building is based on a drawing by the architect of the Capitol, Dr. William Thornton.

Music has always been an integral part of the spiritual life of St. John’s, as evidenced by the congregation’s support of a series of pipe organs and musicians to support, inspire, and enhance worship. Unfortunately, after years of growth followed by years of financial problems, St. John’s was closed in 1831, sold and rented as a studio for the famous German sculptor Ferdinand Pettrich. In 1838, a group of young ladies from the parish raised $50 to buy back the church. Eventually, the parish commissioned plans for a new pulpit, began improvements to altar rails, added a reading desk, a communion table of black Egyptian marble, a bell in the steeple, and a replacement organ.

Reconstruction and reconfiguration continued over the years. In 1886, the organ and choir were relocated from the rear gallery to the front of the church. The side galleries were removed, a painting project was undertaken, and the baptistry was configured on the west side of the chancel. The year 1887 commenced the installation of the carved oak reredos with an attached altar joined with the paintings of the Four Gospellers by Johannes Oertel on either side. Between 1888 and 1909, the center aisle mosaic floor, the mosaic floor in the chancel area, and the stained glass windows were installed. Improvements between 1945 and 1949 were major, including the renovation of the rectory; the renovation, repair, and restoration of the church and Parish Hall; the altar was moved away from the reredos to allow clergy to face the congregation, and the choir was moved to the former baptistry.
1995, as part of the Bicentennial celebration, the Third Century Campaign was launched. This project included a new pre-school, the new atrium, a new choir room and offices on the lower level, the Chapel of the Carpenter, and Columbarium. The organ was repaired in 1998, followed by a major parish hall renovation in 2005, which created Blake Hall.

In September 2012, St. John’s realized a great joy with the installation of a new pipe organ designed specifically for the historic church and generously donated by the John and Dariel Van Wagoner family. The thirty-nine rank pipe organ, built by Casavant Frères of Saint-Hyacinthe, Quebec, Canada, launched a new era of musical enrichment at St. John’s. It is diverse, inspired, and grounded in the rich Anglican heritage of music in the Episcopal Church, with musical leadership from a superb corps of professional singers complemented by dedicated volunteer parishioners. Music at St. John’s reflects the variety and range of liturgies, from Sunday morning Eucharist and festival services, to the performances for the Georgetown Concert Series.

St. John’s, Lafayette Square, was organized in 1815 to serve as a parish church for Episcopalians residing in neighborhoods in the west end of the newly established District of Columbia. Located in proximity to the White House, St. John’s was also intended to be of service to the President and the President’s household, and was consecrated on December 27, 1816.

Beginning with James Madison, every person who has served as President of the United States has attended regular or occasional services; thus, St. John’s is often referred to as the “Church of the Presidents.” Pew 54 is the President’s Pew, and this is where the current President and his family sit when attending Sunday services, although they sit in the front pew on Inauguration Day and other state-related occasions. President Lincoln sat in the rear pew on the south aisle when he attended Sunday evening services during the Civil War, and this pew is left in its original state in his honor.

The architect of St. John’s was Benjamin Henry Latrobe, who was also its first organist. Latrobe, the “Father of American Architecture,” restored the Capitol and the White House after the War of 1812. There are two other Latrobe churches in continuing use in the greater Washington area: St. Paul’s Episcopal Church in Alexandria, Virginia (1818), and the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Baltimore, Maryland (1821).

St. John’s parish buildings have several notable features. The bell in St. John’s steeple weighs nearly 1,000 pounds. It was cast by Paul Revere’s son, Joseph, at his Boston foundry in August 1822 and installed at St. John’s on November 30, 1822. President James Monroe authorized a $100 contribution of public funds toward the purchase of this church bell, which also served as an alarm bell for the neighborhoods and public buildings in the vicinity of the church. St. John’s bell is one of two Revere bells in Washington, both cast and installed in 1822. However, of the two, St. John’s bell is the only one that has been in continuous service since its installation.

The Parish House adjoining the church at 1525 H Street, NW, was once the British Legation. It was here in 1842 that Lord Alexander Baring Ashburton and U.S. Secretary of State Daniel Webster signed the treaty finalizing the border between the New England states and the Canadian Maritime Provinces.

A number of the stained glass windows in St. John’s were designed and executed by artisans at Chartres Cathedral in France, and St. John’s was for many years host to a French Protestant congregation.

Today, St. John’s, Lafayette Square, is a vital congregation of 1,000 communicants, with an ongoing role of service to the nation, to the City and Diocese of Washington, and to the world. All are welcomed and accepted at St. John’s where, together, laity and clergy strive to do God’s work in the world.

St. Mary’s, Arlington, has origins dating back to the initial missionary work of the Rev’d John George Sadtler, who, in 1924, became rector of Langley Parish and its parish church, St. John’s, McLean. At that time Langley Parish included parts of both Fairfax and Arlington Counties, and so Fr. Sadtler also ministered part time to the Epiphany Mission Church in Cherrylake, Arlington. Not long after his appointment, he became interested in establishing a new mission church in the rapidly growing section of Arlington near the Washington Golf and Country Club. After canvassing the neighborhood in the summer of 1925, Fr. Sadtler proposed to the St. John’s vestry that steps be taken to build a church there. The vestry concurred and appointed a committee to implement the proposal.

Admiral and Mrs. Presley M. Rixey, who lived in the mansion that is now the core of Marymount University’s central building, became very interested in the church project. They had decided to reserve part of their land as a site for a church and offered the gift of that land, located at Rixey Station, to the building committee. By the end of July, the committee had accepted the gift, approved a preliminary design for the building drawn up by architect W.H. Irwin Fleming, and come up with a plan for raising money.

The building committee elected Admiral Rixey, who served as Surgeon General of the U.S. Navy, an honorary member and asked him and Mrs. Rixey to select the name of the church. They settled on Church of Our Mothers, but Fr. Sadtler pointed out that Episcopal churches were generally named for a saint or Biblical character and suggested St. Mary’s. The Rixeys and the committee agreed upon St. Mary’s—The Church of Our Mothers as the compromise. The Rixeys also offered to match money raised within the parish for the building fund, up to a specified amount.

Bishop William Cabell Brown relieved Fr. Sadtler of his ministry at the Epiphany Mission Church so that he could devote more time to the new mission church. Fr. Sadtler secured permission from Arlington County school authorities to hold church services in the nearby unoccupied Carne School Building—at the site of what is now St. Mark’s United Methodist Church. The first divine service was held at the school on February 4, 1926.

Fund raising efforts were so successful that ground was broken for the church building on June 5, 1926. The Rt. Rev’d Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop Coadjutor of Virginia, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev’d John G. Sadtler. Despite inclement weather, more than 100 people attended.

St. Mary’s Church was expanded in 1951 and 1998. The 1998 renovation included reversing the interior orientation of the nave so that the altar and baptismal font were at the north end and a new organ by Lively-Fulcher and choir were at the south end.

The Rev’d Andrew T.P. Merrow accepted the call to serve St. Mary’s as permanent rector effective March 5, 1985. Under the strong and imaginative leadership of Fr. Merrow, St. Mary’s has experienced rapid growth. St. Mary’s has seen its total estimated membership grow throughout the 2000s, surpassing the church’s previous high mark of 1,857 at the end of 1957. By the end of 2011, membership had since grown to an estimated 2,045 parishioners.

ST. PAUL’S PARISH, K STREET, was founded in 1867 within the Anglo-Catholic tradition of Anglicanism. The centrality of the Mass has been the primary emphasis of its worship from the earliest years. St. Paul’s Christmas “midnight Mass” of 1870 was perhaps the first in the United States in an Episcopal church. The Eucharist has been celebrated daily, and vestments used, since before 1900. The Blessed Sacrament has been reserved continuously since at least 1912. The parish was founded as a “free church” (meaning there were no rented pews, a rarity in the 19th century), and was a pioneer in the use of the “envelope system” for offerings.

St. Paul’s held the first “choral service” in Washington, with the first vested choir, and the first procession—a service that was remembered by the then-Rector’s wife in a newspaper interview many years later: “...[W]hat a sensation was created by the announcement the boy choir would appear on that day; how the people came from all over the district and packed the church to the doors, some bringing boxes and stools to stand on and look in at the windows, to see the spectacle of men and boys in robes...” The parish’s processional cross also was used at services marking the laying of the foundation stone of the Washington Cathedral in 1907 and the setting of the Cathedral’s final stone in 1990.

A wave of missionary enthusiasm in the Convocation of Washington (then part of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland) led to the founding of St. Paul’s Parish just after the close of the Civil War, as the city developed westward. Sponsored by St. John’s Parish (Lafayette Square), St. Paul’s was organized in 1866 and achieved parish status in 1867. The first church was built at 917 23rd Street, NW, near Washington Circle, in 1868. The surrounding area looked far different than it does today. There was great contrast between L’Enfant’s grand plans for the nation’s capital and the sordid reality of the city. Barracks covered the land where the church was to be built. The low, marshy land south of Washington Circle was known as Foggy Bottom, noted for duck and frog hunting. The West End WASHTON NATIONAL CATHEDRAL serves as the cathedral church of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington. The idea of a National Cathedral can be dated to January 24, 1791, when President George Washington commissioned Major Pierre L’Enfant to create a visionary plan for the nation’s capital. It was L’Enfant who first imagined “a great church for national purposes.” Not until a century later, with support from community leaders such as Charles C. Glover, did plans for building Washington National Cathedral gain momentum.

On January 6, 1893, Congress granted a charter (incorporation papers) to the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia, allowing it to establish a cathedral and institutions of higher learning. Signed by President Benjamin Harrison, this charter is the birth certificate of Washington National Cathedral. After his consecration in 1896, the Rt. Rev’d Henry Yates Satterlee, the first bishop of Washington, secured land on Mount Saint Alban—the most commanding spot in the entire Washington area.

The longest-running construction project in Washington, DC, history officially began on September 29, 1907, when workmen laid the Cathedral’s foundation stone. President Theodore Roosevelt and the Bishop of London spoke to a crowd of ten thousand. The stone itself came from a field near Bethlehem and was set into a larger piece of American granite. On it was the inscription: “The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us” (John 1:14).

After Bethlehem Chapel opened for services in 1912, the Cathedral quickly became a place for services of national focus, even as it remained under construction. In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson attended the official thanksgiving service for the end of the First World War. Three years later, President Warren G. Harding led all thirty-four delegates to the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armaments to a special Cathedral service through the “Way of Peace” entrance by Bethlehem Chapel. In 1956, President Woodrow Wilson’s tomb in the Cathedral was dedicated. And it was at the National Cathedral that the Rev’d Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., preached his last Sunday sermon from the Canterbury Pulpit.

As construction finished, the Cathedral’s place in history was firmly established. The Cathedral’s nave and west rose window were completed and dedicated in 1976 in the presence of Queen Elizabeth II and President Gerald Ford. In 1982, the Pilgrim Observation Gallery was completed and opened to the public, and the following year, the final phase of construction began with the setting of the first stone for the west towers. The cathedral was finally completed in 1990, after eighty-three years of construction.

In the new millennium, Washington National Cathedral continues to grow and change to fill the spiritual needs of the nation. The Cathedral was the site of President George W. Bush’s Inaugural Prayer Service and the National Day of Prayer and Remembrance service on September 14, 2001. In 2002, the Cathedral’s Christmas Day service marked its fiftieth nationwide telecast. In 2007, the Cathedral marked the start of its second century with a centennial celebration including festivals, reunions, exalted liturgy, concerts, lectures, and the inauguration of the new dean’s Sunday Forum.

Virginia Theological Seminary dates to the early nineteenth century when a small group of dedicated men committed themselves to the task of recruiting and training a new generation of church leaders following the Revolutionary War. Francis Scott Key was one of this group which, in 1818, formed “An Education Society” and five years later opened the “School of Prophets,” to become the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Virginia. When the school opened in Alexandria with two instructors, fourteen students were enrolled. During the Civil War, the school was occupied. After the war, two professors and eleven veterans reopened the seminary on a campus that had been used to house 1,700 wounded Federal troops and to bury 500 soldiers.

On June 3, 1953, Virginia Seminary merged with the Bishop Payne Divinity School, a distinguished African-American institution started by Virginia Seminary in 1878. Since 1950, twenty-two new buildings have been added to the campus, including five dormitories, the refectory and Scott Lounge, fifteen faculty homes, a recreation building, and a day-care center for young children. In 1993, the Addison Academic Center opened with classroom space, the Lettie Pate Whitehead Evans Auditorium, the seminary bookstore, and the student lounge.

On October 22, 2010, an intense fire destroyed nineteenth-century Immanuel Chapel on the grounds of the seminary. The flames were so fierce that firefighters were unable to enter the building and were forced to attack the fire from a distance using ground based crews and a high level (aerial platform) hose. No other part of the seminary was damaged and there were no injuries. Several of the stained glass windows were destroyed, including the Miriam window and the window over the altar. The iconic words, “Go Ye Into All The World And Preach The Gospel,” painted above that window, were also destroyed by the heat of the fire. The pulpit, the lectern and its Bible for readings during services, and the baptismal font, were not hurt by the fire. Damage is estimated at $2.5 million. An investigation by the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) and the Alexandria Fire Marshal’s Office determined that the fire was of accidental nature. A new Immanuel Chapel, designed by Robert A.M. Stern Architects of New York, is currently under construction.

The seminary’s primary mission is to form men and women for lay or ordained leadership and service in the ministry of the church. Out of its evangelical heritage and its missionary tradition, it emphasizes the life of prayer, worship, and community, the ministries of preaching, teaching, pastoral care and social justice. It seeks to prepare its students as servants of Jesus Christ to equip the people of God for their vocation and ministry in the world. It also provides continuing theological education for clergy and laity of all denominations.

The seminary believes that theological education leading to ordination normally requires full-time study and full participation in its common life and worship. It also believes that theological education is greatly enhanced when it is done within an ecumenical, international, and cross-cultural context.
